Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo Celebrates Centennial

SUBMITTED BY ALFREDA SEBASTO

The excitement is building for the 100th "Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo" set to be held May 20 - 22 at the historic Rowell Rodeo Park off of Highway 580 between Dublin and Castro Valley. Begun more than 100 years ago by local rancher and rodeo stock contractor Harry Rowell, it remains a time for the community to come together and celebrate while giving back to local nonprofits.

The 100th Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo kicks off Friday, May 20 with the Rockin' Bull Bash followed by a weekend of professional rodeo action.

The Rockin' Bull Bash will kick Friday night into full throttle when some of the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association's (PRCA) best bull riders take on the sport's rankest bulls for a heart-stopping showdown. When bull riding ends, the fun will continue at the after-party with the high octane sounds of Northern California's popular independent country star, Kurt Van Meter. He's shared the stage with icons like Garth Brooks, Blake Shelton, Eric Church and Gary Allen. Van Meter is ready to rock the house with his hard-core country sound Friday night.

Washington Township Medical Foundation Welcomes Mark Liang, MD

Primary Care Provider is Getting to Know His Warm Springs Patients

Can winning a raffle ticket result in a career in medicine? The answer is yes, if you happen to be Mark Liang, MD, a primary care provider (PCP) with Washington Township Medical Foundation (WTMF).

Dr. Liang joined WTMF last month and sees patients at the Warm Springs Clinic. "Being a PCP gives me the opportunity to follow patients closely and to get to know them over a long period of time," he says. "I've spent part of my career as a hospitalist, including at Washington Hospital in Fremont a few years ago. In that role, I would only see acutely ill patients while they were in the Hospital, usually for a short period of time. When they left the Hospital, I had no further contact with them."

"I'm looking forward to connecting with the local community in Warm Springs and believe my being fluent in Mandarin will help me do that." Dr. Liang and his medical assistant Li Fen Liang both speak Mandarin.

But back to that raffle ticket: When Dr. Liang was an undergraduate at the University of California, Berkeley, he enrolled in a student-led class on how to prepare for the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT), the highly competitive exam required to apply to medical school. "I wasn't sure I wanted to be a doctor," he recalls, "but I was generally interested in the field of health care, so I signed up for the campus course."

Students who enrolled in the class were automatically entered in a raffle to win a six-month MCAT preparation course from Kaplan, Inc., the company whose business is preparing students for taking college entrance exams. "I won the raffle," says Dr. Liang. "I took the Kaplan course, and then the MCAT exam—and did very well. I was accepted at Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia. My medical career was launched."

Life as a primary care provider

As a physician, Dr. Liang finds it very rewarding to make a difference in a patient's life. For example, a few years ago he saw a new patient and noticed that his platelet level had been below normal for a long time but hadn't been investigated. (Platelets are a component of blood.) Dr. Liang recommended the patient have an abdominal ultrasound as part of his workup. This revealed a tumor in his kidney. The surgery that followed saved the patient's life. "I'm very detailed oriented," he says, "so I'm always attuned to making note of anything unusual, no matter how small."

Dr. Liang is pleased to join WTMF and thoroughly enjoys working with the staff and his patients. "I like helping people and while being a physician can be a challenging job, it is extremely rewarding," he says.

Grateful to his Family

A native of Taiwan, Dr. Liang came to the United States with his parents and younger brother when he was 19 years old. "My parents wanted a better life for my brother and me," he recalls. And though he was excited about going to America, sadly, he realized that he would probably never see his friends again.

"I spoke some English in Taiwan, and once I arrived here, I began talking to people and watching television to improve my language skills," Dr. Liang notes. "Medical school was difficult for me, not only because the subjects were tough, but also because I had to continually look up medical terms to see the translation in Mandarin."

Mark Liang, MD

He continues, "My parents made a lot of sacrifices to seek out a better world for me. In some ways, being a physician is a way to thank them and to show them that their efforts were worthwhile."

Washington Hospital Healthcare Foundation Announces Golf Tournament Success

$100,000 Raised for Hospital Surgical Services

On Thursday, May 5, Washington Hospital Healthcare Foundation welcomed golfers to the 35th Annual Golf Tournament at The Club at Castlewood in Pleasanton. After two years of being unable to gather in person, the tournament brought together friends and community members to raise money for surgical services at Washington Hospital. According to the Hospital Foundation, funds raised will help meet the growing patient demand for critical and lifesaving surgical procedures by funding state-of-the-art surgical equipment and technology for Washington Hospital's operating rooms.

For 35 years, the golf tournament has raised money for Washington Hospital. According to the Foundation Executive Director, Sarah Gemski, this year's successful event raised more than $100,000.

The day featured an 18-hole golf tournament, putting contest, barbecue lunch, opportunities to win prizes on the course, and an outdoor cocktail reception and awards presentation. This year, the tournament was held on the Hill Course with 120 golfers enjoying a spectacular day among friends and colleagues.

The tournament is held in memory of Gene Angelo Pessagno, a founding member of the Washington Hospital Healthcare Foundation and longtime Fremont business owner. Memorial recognition was also given to longtime tournament chairman, Lamar Hinton. Though this was the first tournament since his passing, Hinton was remembered throughout the day.

"I would like to thank our generous sponsors, especially Platinum Sponsors, Fremont Bank and Gonsalves & Kozachenko" said Gary Charland, President of the Foundation. "I would also like to thank all of our golfers and volunteers who generously supported the tournament and Foundation. And a special thank-you to Laura Pessagno and her family for their longtime commitment to the tournament, the Foundation, and the Washington Hospital Service League."

Awards Presentation

The first place men's winners, with a score of 57, were the foursome from Landmark Exchange consisting of Michael Tong, Greg Paler, Chong Tseng and Jon Chuyang. First place women's, with a score of 70, went to Naomi Wallace, Linda Gonsalves and Patti Balch. First place mixed, with a score of 60, were Candace Caballero, Dan Kosin, Garry Jackson and Walter Choto. Longest drive winners were Kyle Dickson and Rebecca Stange. Kyle Gerds and Patti Balch won the closest to the pin contest. Nathan Coyle won for most accurate drive. And the putting contest ended in a tie between E Chau and Dr. Tim Tsoi.

Rowell Ranch Pro Rodeo Celebrates Centennial

The celebration continues through the weekend with two days of professional rodeo action on Saturday, May 21 and Sunday, May 22. Prior to the Saturday and Sunday performance fans are invited into the arena for the Cowboy Experience at 12 noon. It's an opportunity to learn first-hand about the sport of rodeo, the various events, equipment used, and the sport's animal welfare rules. You're encouraged to take the time to come down into the arena, visit with cowboys and committee members about the care and equipment that goes into making sure animals and cowboys are well taken care of at all times.

Highlights of the Centennial celebration will include lots of added awards and recognitions, and a special visit from award winning Charro, Tomas Garcilazo who will be joined by his wife Justine and son Louie. The season one winner of Snoop Dog's TBS "Go Big Show," Garcilazo is preserving the history of the charro and will show fans his amazing skills as a rope artist and horseman.

Rodeo tickets are on sale now. General admission and reserved seating are available. Visit rowellranchrodeo.com to get your tickets today. Tickets can also be purchased at the gate the day of the performance.

Burger and Brew Fest returns to Fremont

This year's event will take place at the Downtown Event Center Plaza in Fremont. The brewery lineup includes 21st Amendment Brewery (San Francisco), Altamont Beer Works (Livermore), JP Das Brew (Fremont), Oakland United Beerworks, S27 Ales (San Jose), and more. Distilleries include 10th Street Distillery (San Jose), Balcones Distiller (Waco, Texas), Mezcal Amarás (Oaxaca, Mexico), and more.

Food will be more than just burgers. Each year the festival strives to have a wide variety of burgers and sliders, so instead of a fleet of traditional burger trucks, guests can choose from Mexican to Greek, all dishing up their own version of an amazing burger. At this year's event, guests can sample 3 Brother's Kitchen (Southeast Asian), Cali Cruisin (American), Golden Gate (Gyros & Greek), Tear It Up (American & Mexican), and Wonder Philly (Cheesesteaks).

Catch the Burger Throwdown at 12 noon. In this cooking competition, local celebrity teams are challenged to create the most mouth-watering burger in one hour. Judging and awards will take place at 1 p.m. The winning team will receive a $250 donation to the charity of their choice, and have their name added to the Perpetual Burger Throwdown Trophy.

Finally, the music lineup includes Surf Monster (12 noon – 1 p.m.), Daniel Castro (1:30 p.m. – 3 p.m.), and Lunafish (3:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.).

Local Olympian talks mental health

SUBMITTED BY CHELSEA HEATH PHILBRICK

In light of Mental Health Awareness Month, Olympic figure skater Karen Chen will join fellow Olympian Lyndsey Fry to speak at their K-12 alma mater in a series of open-to-the-public virtual events designed for youth, Connections Academy's Emotional Fitness Talks. Karen is an alumna of California Connections Academy, a network of online public schools serving students across the East Bay.

Karen Chen, who took home the silver in Beijing in 2022, has been vocal about her mental health struggles, including anxiety and self-confidence, which she detailed in her memoir Finding The Edge: My Life on the Ice. Today, she uses her experience and platform to encourage open and honest conversations about mental health.

Her talk will be moderated by Connections Academy's director of counseling, Morgan Champion, with resources provided at the end. Subject matter is intended for students in sixth-grade and above.

Eagle Scout helps Afghan refugees

SUBMITTED BY HAROLD CHOI

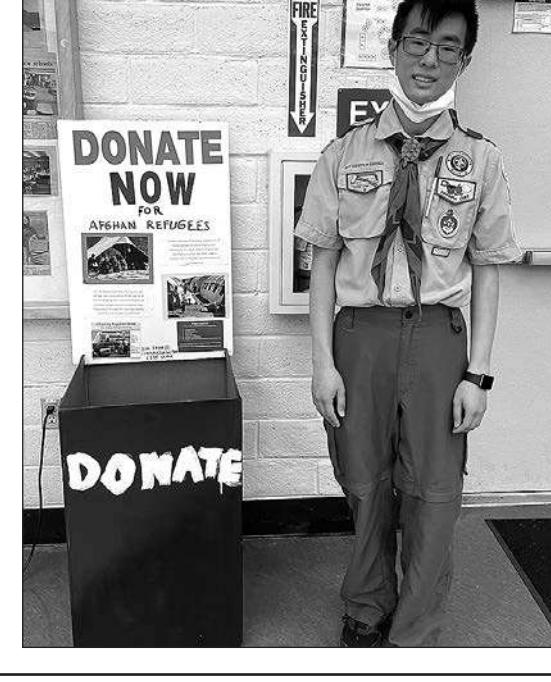

For his Eagle Scout project for BSA Troop 111, Harold Choi wanted to focus on a way to help Afghan refugees in Fremont. He remembered the stories his grandfather told him about living in refugee camps during the Korean war; how each person was allotted only one small bowl of rice per day if they were lucky. As a son of an Army Veteran, Harold also wanted to honor those who had helped the U.S. military in Afghanistan.

There are many groups that are providing food support, but other necessities have been more difficult to obtain due to supply chain shortages and increasing prices. Through CityServe's Compassion Network, Harold discovered that many refugees desperately need cleaning supplies.

Initially Harold had other ideas of how he might be able to help, but he realized that the needs of the recipients should rightly be the focus of the project. He is looking for unused, unopened cleaning supplies of all kinds. Perhaps you have a stockpile of Clorox wipes from early in the pandemic?

Harold's Cleaning Supplies Drive for Afghan Refugees will be taking place from May 16 - June 6. If you have questions about the drive, please reach out to haroldafghandonations@gmail.com.

Addendum

For the article "Amid challenges, Afghani family finds a new place to call home" by Alfred Hu (May 3, 2022) some information was inadvertently left out of the final draft.

For the article, a man—identified for the story as "Ramin"—shared his story of working for the United States Agency for International Development in Afghanistan. After receiving death threats from the Taliban, he fled his home country—first to Austria with his teenage son, and finally to the California Bay Area, where he was able to reunite with his wife and young daughter.

While in Austria, Ramin started to work with the Aleph Institute, an organization assisting isolated members of communities and families with members who were targeted in Afghanistan, to evacuate his wife and young daughter to Abu Dhabi in October 2021. He worked further with Aleph to help evacuate other people as well, including his siblings and parents. Afterwards, Aleph introduced him to the Chabad of Fremont Jewish Center, a non-profit organization headed by Rabbi Moshe and Chaya Fuss.

Chabad of Fremont volunteered to sponsor Ramin and his son. They warmly welcomed them into the community and offered assistance including providing food, a place to stay at a local synagogue, assistance in getting a driver's license, as well as helping his son enroll at a local school. In addition, Chabad of Fremont helped them get in touch with social networks as well as with Alameda County Supervisor, David Haubert who, along with the City of Fremont, helped fund the organization.

Ramin said, "Having worked initially with the Jewish community and lived and engaged closely with them, I learned a lot from the Jewish community [that is] a model for helping humans without borders, tolerance, and most importantly someone whom you can rely on when you are in need. Aleph and Chabad and the overall Jewish community remain a key part of our lives. We will never forget their assistance."

As of late April 2022, Ramin's wife and daughter have finally arrived from Abu Dhabi and also are being looked after by Chabad of Fremont.

Gala Celebrates Excellence in Education

SUBMITTED BY KATHY KIMBERLIN

Fremont Education Foundation (FEF) is proud to announce its "Puttin' On The Ritz" Roaring 20s-themed event to honor some amazing members of Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) and the Fremont community. We invite our guests to join us in tipping their fedoras and sparkling in their flapper dresses to celebrate our FUSD and community honorees at 2022's "Excellence in Education Gala" on May 20.

This year we are excited to be recognizing two honorees from FUSD: the school district's outstanding Technology Department which supported distance learning, as well as Bob Sterling, Kennedy High School's music teacher and one of the After School Band Program's beginning band instructors. From the Fremont community, we are also thrilled to recognize two honorees: Haller's Pharmacy for being an invaluable partner to FUSD and the residents of Fremont during a global pandemic; and Fahria Khan, a community member who has worked tirelessly to support Fremont schools, as well as providing support for organizations and programs.

Our Foundation and event sponsors so far this year are Fremont Bank, Meta, and Alameda County Supervisor David Haubert (and growing). This event is also a fundraiser for our Innovative Education Teacher Grant (IEG) program to provide supplies and resources to teachers that include Science/Technology/Engineering/Math (STEM) and support vibrant and engaging learning.

We look forward to celebrating with our Fremont community, FUSD staff and honorees at our Excellence in Education Gala.

Difficult Bosses and How to Manage Them

BY ANNE CHAN, PhD, MFT

In last month's article, I explained the concept of managing up – being proactive in creating a positive relationship with your boss so that both of you can enjoy a smoother work life. However, managing up is trickier and more challenging with a difficult boss. If you hate your boss, you might think that managing up is impossible. However, managing up is vitally important to your career, especially if you have a difficult boss.

The Great Resignation shows us that many people have problem bosses. These bosses make their employees' lives difficult by doing things like micromanaging, not providing adequate feedback or recognition, and breaking promises. If you find yourself nodding vigorously at the previous sentence, you are not alone. A recent study found that half of the employees surveyed had left a job because of a bad boss. The good news is that you can improve your relationship with your difficult boss by managing up.

But first, take a good hard look at your own behaviors. Please be honest as you think about how you perform at work. What are your work habits, strengths, and weaknesses? In what ways have you been unprofessional? Some disgruntled employees sometimes react to their bad bosses by becoming bad employees who clock in late, take long lunch breaks, slack off, or leave early. This is understandable human behavior, but it does not serve you well to act unprofessionally. If anything, it gives your boss even more ammunition to act poorly toward you.

Try not to take your boss's actions personally. It makes things far more difficult if you say things like "She's out to get me," or "He's so evil." Remember, you can't change your boss, but you can take charge of your own peace of mind by changing your reactions to him or her.

In order to manage up successfully, you have to understand where your boss is coming from. See if you can answer the following questions:

- What are their top priorities right now?
- What would make their lives easier?

- How would they like to be supported?
- What is their next career goal?

Knowing the answers to these questions will help you to understand what they value at work. You can then put your energies on these priorities. If you don't know the answers to these questions, take steps to get this valuable information.

Many employees get frustrated by their supervisors' ways of communication. Take the time to assess and adapt to your manager's style. What are your manager's preferences when it comes to work and communication styles? Is he a people person or is she deeply introverted? Do they prefer to communicate face-to-face or via email? Are they more social in the morning or later in the day? Become an expert on your manager's preferences and adapt to those preferences. Don't make the mistake of expecting your manager to adapt to you. You would have a far more successful and satisfying relationship if you can master your manager's style of communication.

Ask questions when given a task so that you are confident you understand your boss's expectations. This is a good time to ask, "How would you measure success in this project/task/department?" Be proactive in keeping your boss informed about your progress. This is especially true if you are working virtually. It is also good to speak up about your accomplishments. Being upfront in this way might tame your micromanager boss who wants to be kept in the loop.

Above all, stay professional at all times. I can completely understand if you want to badmouth your boss and gripe with your colleagues. However, you would ultimately be the winner if you can maintain a dignified, professional presence and you have nothing to hide and nothing to be ashamed of.

Of course, managing up might not be fruitful in certain types of work environments and with certain bosses. For instance, if you have an abusive or toxic boss, it might behoove you to look for another job rather than devoting your energy to managing up. However, in many work situations where your boss is not Cruella de Vil, consider taking action to manage up. It is often said that people don't quit their jobs; they quit their managers. If you are one of those tempted to leave because of your manager, consider managing up so that you can hone your skills and perhaps change your existing working relationship for the better.

Park It: Black Diamond Day

BY NED MACKAY

Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve will help celebrate the city of Antioch's 150th anniversary with a day of special activities from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, May 21.

Park naturalists wearing 19th century attire will greet visitors, and park staff will conduct free first-come, first-served tours of the park's underground mining museum. A free shuttle to the event will run every 20 minutes from Somersville Towne Center Mall.

From the mid-19th Century through the early 20th, the area now including the preserve was California's largest coal mining region. The mining towns of Somersville and Nortonville were Contra Costa County's most populous. The coal-mining era was followed by a silica-mining period from about 1920 through the mid-1940s. Economic factors put an end to the mining, and ranching resumed. East Bay Regional Park District acquired the core of the present parklands in the early 1970s.

Tours of the former mining tunnels are restricted to ages seven and older for safety reasons. However, the park's underground Greathouse Visitor Center is open to all ages, and contains photos and artifacts from mining days.

Black Diamond Mines is located at the end of Somersville Road, 3½ miles south of Highway 4 in Antioch. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle when the kiosk is attended. For information, call (510) 544-2750.

Both experienced and aspiring gardeners will enjoy a gardening program planned from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 21, at Big Break Regional Shoreline in Oakley. Naturalist Nicole Gange will share information, ideas and seeds to grow vegetables, flowers and native pollinator gardens, both in the ground and in pots.

This is a free, drop-in program, no registration is necessary. Big Break is at 69 Big Break Road off Main Street in Oakley. For information, call (510) 544-3050.

Saturday Strolls are a series of usually easy, family-friendly, naturalist-led hikes designed for all ages to enjoy. There's one from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, May 21 at Anthony Chabot Regional Park in the Oakland hills.

This stroll is about 2½ miles long, leading from grasslands to creekside, with some elevation differences. The trail may be muddy, and there are no restrooms available.

No registration is necessary; just show up. Meet the naturalist at the Clyde Woolridge trailhead at the intersection of Skyline Boulevard and Grass Valley Road in Oakland. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

You can learn all about cordage and knots during a program from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, May 21 at Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont. Naturalist Dino Labiste will show how indigenous people made rope by harvesting and twisting plant fibers. He'll also show some useful knots with which you can put the cordage to work.

The program is for ages eight and older, and parent participation is required. It's free of charge, but registration is required. To register, call (888) 327-2757, option 2. For information, call (510) 544-3220.

Coyote Hills is at the end of Patterson Ranch Road off Paseo Padre Parkway. There's a parking fee of $5 per vehicle.

Hone your tracking skills during a program from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 21 at Crab Cove Visitor Center in Alameda. A naturalist will lead the search for human and animal tracks along the shore and on the beach. The program is free, and registration is not necessary.

Crab Cove is at 1252 McKay Avenue off Central Avenue. For information, call (510) 544-3187.

"Park N Play" is the theme of a program from 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, May 22 at Del Valle Regional Park south of Livermore. Naturalist Alex Collins will lead a variety of activities and games exploring the natural history of the park. The program is geared for kids aged 10 and younger, or for the young at heart. It's free; parent participation is required.

The focus this time is on fishing lore, in observance of Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month. Everyone will get a chance to make their own gyotaku-inspired fish print to take home. Gyotaku is an art form invented by Japanese fishermen about a century ago. They would paint the fish and stamp it onto rice paper as a record of their prize catch.

Meet at the Del Valle Visitor Center. The park is located on Del Valle Road off Mines Road about nine miles south of Livermore. There's a $6 parking fee. For information, call the Del Valle naturalists at (510) 544-3146.

There are lots of other programs on the regional park calendar in coming days. For full information, go to www.ebparks.org and click on "Things to Do" on the home page.

New Torah at Chabad Fremont

SUBMITTED BY BONNIE KELLOGG

Chabad Fremont has commissioned a new Torah, and the scribe writing the final words on the parchment will take place at a special ceremony on Thursday, May 19.

The ceremony of completing the Torah and its dedication will be at the home of the Rabbi, after which the Torah will be hand carried under a Chuppa (special canopy normally reserved for a wedding) to the Chabad center .4 miles away, where it will be placed in its new home.

The Torah is a hand-written scroll of the first five books of the bible and is at the heart of Judaism. Torahs are sacred and each one is given a place of honor. To register for the Torah campaign visit: <https://bit.ly/3yzowzQ>

Kaiser Nurse Shares her Story for National Nurses Week

By STEPHANIE GERTSCH

On Saturday, May 7, Kaiser nurse Cristina Rivera finished her shift at 7:30 a.m. After a quick nap, she was on Zoom to talk about her experiences for National Nurses Week (May 6-12, 2022).

What she loves most about nursing is the connection to people. "Being there for them and listening to their stories, that was incredible. And I enjoy it every single day," she said. "The last couple of years have been very challenging with the pandemic, but it's also made me stronger and made me really appreciate life in general."

Rivera knows what it's like to be on the other side of the patient/provider relationship. In 2016, she was diagnosed with breast cancer. Her three children (also joining the Zoom call) helped her through the ordeal. "When I was going through chemo and radiation, they were there for me," she remembered. "[Oldest son] CJ was actually at San Diego in his last year. He was waiting to graduate. And when he found out about it, he said, 'Do you want me to come home?' I told him no. The best thing you can do for me is to finish...Thank God he did." The two stayed in touch via phone.

She continued, "The most vivid story for me is when my hair was falling off. I would just hold it and clumps of hair would be on the floor. I don't know what it is about hair. It's one of those things you're so attached to as part of your identity and body image. And at that time it really meant a lot to me to keep it. But I knew I wasn't going to keep it for very long." Her two younger kids (10 and 14 at the time) helped cut her hair.

Middle child Catherine remembered, "When my mom was going through that situation...I didn't really understand how to be there for her emotionally. Physically I was able to be there, but I know now being in nursing school [at University of San Francisco]...that healthcare is delivering to the whole person: emotionally, physically, and mentally." Youngest child Charles, who plans to study nursing at UCF in the fall, said "That was one of the first times I had ever held space for someone."

It's no coincidence that all three of the Rivera children are pursuing nursing. CJ, now an ICU nurse at Washington Hospital in Fremont, said, "Seeing the way my mom cared for her patients and the way she was compassionate toward others inspired me to go into nursing. Two and a half years later, I'm still very thankful for the career I've chosen." Likewise, Catherine shared, "Growing up I always knew I wanted to be a nurse."

"That's very comforting for me," Rivera stated. "That when I'm gone I know that they will be there for other people as well."

Nursing is a rewarding, but also incredibly taxing profession. "The most difficult part is that we are also emotional," Rivera explained. When people get hospitalized, they're often more demanding and impatient because they've lost their sense of control. "But we talk to them and say, we're here. We want to make sure you're comfortable...And after that the walls go down."

"At the end of the day, we are there for [patients] at the most crucial times," she said. "Even some of your significant others are not as much there as some nurses are. We've seen the good, bad, and ugly. But most of all we are there for them. And that is the most important part of our being a nurse. You're touching another person and making sure that they're able to survive this. That they're able to move forward and go back to their family."

Rivera concluded, "We try not to take [work] home but it's sometimes very difficult. But I think we take a little bit of that and try to grow into a better person."

We tend to listen more to other people. We tend to be more patient."

After the call, Rivera planned to get some rest and return to work in the evening. A busy but fitting start for this dedicated nurse on National Nurses Week.

Congressman addresses rising food prices

By PAUL MUSSACK

Representative Ro Khanna held a roundtable discussion on May 9 at Arteaga's Food Center in Newark, on the issue of inflation and other challenges for small businesses. Additional speakers included Newark city officials and several business leaders from Arteaga's.

Compared to 2019, the price of milk has risen 38%. Rice and tortillas increased 28% and 24%, respectively. The price of a dozen eggs grew 49%. These are just some of the changes recorded by the staff of Arteaga's. Products whose costs increased most were bottles and cans, fresh meat, fresh fruits and vegetables, and imported goods.

Store owner Lupe Lopez noted that manufacturers and distributors cause increased prices before their products even reach her, the retailer. She suggested that regulation is needed.

"That has to start with the manufacturer. That has to start with the supply of goods," said Lopez. "Are they really implementing the amount based on their ability to produce it, or are they using Covid as an excuse for even higher prices?"

According to Lopez, independent grocers—those with five or more chains—account for 80% of those "feeding the community."

City councilor Sucy Collazo has also seen the effects of rising food and gas prices. Along with her family, she owns and operates Mexico Tortilla Factory in Newark. "Our production has gone from a seven day production to a five day production right now because many of the little restaurants that we served closed at the beginning of the pandemic," said Collazo.

A small business faces issues large ones do not. Juan Robledo, who is in charge of buying inventory for Arteaga's, sees the difference up close.

"Those companies, those vendors, we're not the main focus for them right now," Robledo stated. "So for me it's a challenge just to plan my ad a week in advance. I used to do it every two weeks. Now I have to plan it a week in advance because I don't know if I can get the price in for the following week. I don't know if I can get the product in store for the following week."

Lopez mentions that supply chain issues cause additional problems when equipment breaks. A big company could easily receive repair service, while small businesses would have to buy a replacement, if the equipment vendor takes their order at all.

For small businesses, even money costs money. Credit card companies charge a fee and banks may have fees for paying cash, or depositing or withdrawing coins.

City manager David Benoun stated that Newark had been awarded $11.9 million from the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA), as well as the previous CARES Act. The city allocated $20,000 grants to many small businesses during the pandemic. All but two recipients are still in business today.

Benoun also mentioned a city law setting a 15% cap on delivery fees. Some apps were previously charging up to one third. "Those are real dollars, not necessarily what the consumer would see—the business owner would see."

Alfredo Lopez, the store's marketing director, says grocery delivery is a luxury that most of their customers do not want, yet small businesses cannot afford to ignore potential sales. However, it can be hard for small businesses to attract app customers because they have to charge a higher price to make up for the delivery fee.

Ro Khanna plans to do two things. First, the federal government could use its purchasing power to buy food and sell it at a low price. "Now people will say, 'Well, should the government get involved in the market?' And I think they should right now because the prices are too high and the government intervening in that way is something that can stabilize things," said Khanna. "And some of us are pushing that the President needs to be more aggressive in stabilizing prices until we can get the supply chain and production up." Khanna's second idea is "subsidizing workers in agriculture and food production and maybe even in grocery stores to be able to work."

A member of the public asked what could be done to help people who are slightly above the income level for financial aid or those who don't want to receive SNAP/CalFresh benefits because it might hinder their immigration application. Khanna suggests that the federal food-assistance program be changed to account for the higher cost of living in California, and that government assistance should not set back the immigration process.

FROM AROUND THE WORLD

SUBMITTED BY THE ASSOCIATION OF MATURE AMERICAN CITIZENS

They lost their way

A flock of swallows was late returning to Capistrano, California this spring. The birds seem to have gotten lost and, somehow, wound up in Redding, California, about 600 miles north of their intended destination. When they got there, they decided to stop by the home of Gary and Patti Reitemeyer, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC). The couple were away so hundreds of the birds made themselves at home, entering the Reitemeyer residence via the chimney. A neighbor saw at least 20 swallows "breaking and entering" the house and gave the Reitemeyers a heads-up phone call. Gary later told a reporter from KRCR-TV. "As we pulled up, we were thinking, you know, 20 birds or so—that's no big deal. We open the door and it's like an Alfred Hitchcock movie. There were birds flying everywhere. I mean, it was crazy. We were ducking and dodging."

May the 4th be with you

The greeting used in the first "Star Wars" movie, may the force be with you, became a quite popular way to say hi after the film made its debut in 1978, says AMAC. A year later, according to the Lucasfilm studios, fans started using a corrupted version of the salutation – May the Fourth Be with You -- It is said to have gotten started as the result of a political ad placed by Britain's Conservative Party to celebrate the election of Maggie Thatcher to be Great Britain's first female Prime Minister on May 4, 1979. Soon, fans began celebrating the date in an unofficial manner but it didn't take long before Lucasfilms started recognizing the Fourth of May to be an official holiday and a good way to promote the Star Trek series of films. See video of the greeting on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=up3Y_yQIma8.

He's definitely not acrophobic

The dictionary defines the word "daredevil" as someone who is "reckless and daring." And that, says AMAC, describes Brazilian tightrope walker Rafael Zugno Bridi. His latest achievement -- a not-so-casual stroll on a cable between two hot air balloons 6,233 feet in the air. The International Slackline Association verified the feat and, as a result, Rafael now has the distinction of being a Guinness World Record holder. Is there anyone out there who might want to try taking that award from him? See video of the highest slackline walk on YouTube: www.youtube.com/watch?v=LLMF7MGHLPs.

The Association of Mature American Citizens is a nonprofit, nonpartisan advocacy organization representing membership in Washington, D.C. and in local congressional districts nationwide. More information is available on its website at www.amac.us.

Plethos Productions Presents Once on This Island

This uplifting show centers around a peasant girl named Ti Moune who makes a deal with temperamental gods to be with her love Daniel, from the wealthy side of the island. Unbeknownst to Ti Moune, the pompous gods who preside over the island make a bet with one another, the stakes being Ti Moune's life. When she pursues Daniel, who has returned to his people, Ti Moune is shunned because of her lowly status. The show explores issues like classicism and colorism and ultimately tests which is stronger—the power of love, or death.

Enjoy the gospel-infused score and exuberant island dances while you picnic and sip wine in the middle of the beautiful vineyard. Directed by Salim Razawi, choreographed by Curtis Manning, and vocal directed by Shyanna Bryan.

This week's word:

OBSERVE

The verb observe means to see or notice something especially when watching carefully.

By sitting quietly near the edge of the pond, I was able to observe a frog catching an insect.

Try to use the word observe in a sentence today when talking with your friends and family members.

Write On!

~ THE OFFICIAL KID SCOOP ~ OUTDOOR BILL OF RIGHTS

The Constitution of the United States has a Bill of Rights that lists the rights all Americans enjoy. Kid Scoop believes in a Bill of Rights for children that gives them the right to enjoy nature, spend time outdoors and have a fit and fun summer vacation.

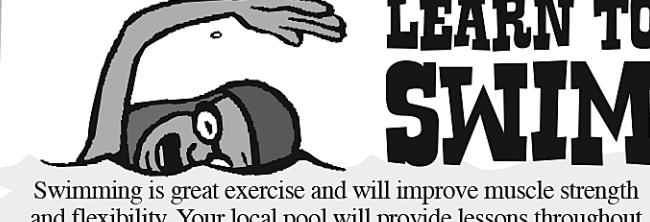

CHART YOUR PROGRESS

Give yourself a star each time you complete one of the 10 outdoor activities listed here. Give yourself a cool reward for completing them all.

SPLASH IN THE WATER

Visit a local lake, river, stream or a nearby ocean. Observe the wildlife around you and list them in your notebook with notes on where, when and what was happening.

LEARN TO SWIM

Swimming is great exercise and will improve muscle strength and flexibility. Your local pool will provide lessons throughout the summer months. If you can't swim, sign up now. If you can swim, enjoy some time at a pool.

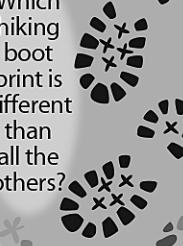

DISCOVER THE PAST

Your state, city, town or community has a rich heritage. Do some research to discover some local history and visit locations that have evidence of a rich cultural past. Take a photo of an old building, statue or tree and do a rubbing or a sketch.

FOLLOW A TRAIL

Make a map of a local trail or bike path. As you follow the trail, mark points of interest along the trail. The next time you take that hike, see what's changed at your points of interest.

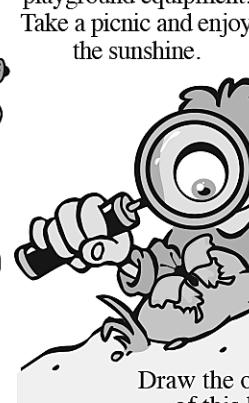

PLAY ON A TEAM

Playing on a team is a good way to make new friends and get some exercise. If there are no organized sports in your area, make your own team and create a game of Frisbee or catch.

PLAY IN A SAFE PLACE

Find a local park with playground equipment. Take a picnic and enjoy the sunshine.

CELEBRATE SUMMER

Pick one feature of your outdoor summer and draw a picture showing the event. Mail it to a friend.

EXPLORE NATURE

Be a nature detective. Look at a field guide or go online to identify birds, wild flowers, insects and trees. List them in your notebook.

Extra! Extra!

Scavenger Hunt

Look through the newspaper to find:

- A picture of someone playing a sport
- A place to exercise
- A local park
- A fun place for the whole family to visit together

Standards Link: Research: Use the newspaper to locate information.

CAMP UNDER THE STARS

Camping out takes organization. If you are going to a campground, you probably need to book your space. Make a list of the things you'll need to take. If you can't go away, camp in your backyard. Take time to look at the stars. Can you spot the North Star and the Big Dipper?

Each of these flashlights has an exact twin. Look closely and see if you can find them all.

Downton Puppy

SUBMITTED BY HUMANE SOCIETY SILICON VALLEY (HSSV)

Fans have waited six years for the film adaption of the hit TV series "Downton Abbey." Now, with "Downton Abbey: A New Era" opening May 20 in US theaters, Humane Society Silicon Valley (HSSV) is offering "Downton Puppy" adoption specials on select dogs!

Through May 20, HSSV is offering a $20 adoption fee for adult dogs 6+ months and over 40 pounds in honor of the new Downton Abbey movie. You don't need a lavish Yorkshire country estate or French villa – just love and the desire for a furry family member. Some of the posh pups featured include:

Callie: HSSV's longest-staying dog and "Diamond of the Season." She is looking for a low-key, adult-only home where she can bond with her person and be loved and spoiled with belly rubs, yummy treats, and a stress-free home to live out her senior years.

(The following adoptions include a post-adoption training scholarship sponsored by Pedigree Foundation, a one-time free trainer consultation to help these pups get off on the right paw!)

Batman: an energetic boy with a zest for life looking for an experienced, adult home that is active and would give him the time and space for physical and mental exercise.

Xena: thinks of herself as a guard dog and will alert you of all the intruders, be it a squirrel, a cat, dog, or an unfamiliar human. In reality, she is just a sweet and affectionate girl who knows basic obedience and will roll over for some much-needed belly rubs.

Scooby-Doo: a big, goofy boy looking for a home with large dog experience where he has space to run, roll, and lounge around. He is still young and in need of obedience training to learn good manners.

Ember: an energetic, social, excitable dog who loves to keep busy. She's probably some mix of working breeds because she's smart, loves to train, and likes to move. She would do best in an experienced, low key adult home that can help harness her sassy, active ways!

Sun Gallery Needs Your Vote!

SUBMITTED BY DORSI DIAZ
SKETCHES BY HENRY CALL

Sun Gallery, a well-loved art gallery in Hayward for 50 years, and Hayward Techies & Makers club are partnering to build community in a unique opportunity to apply for the Hayward People's Budget.

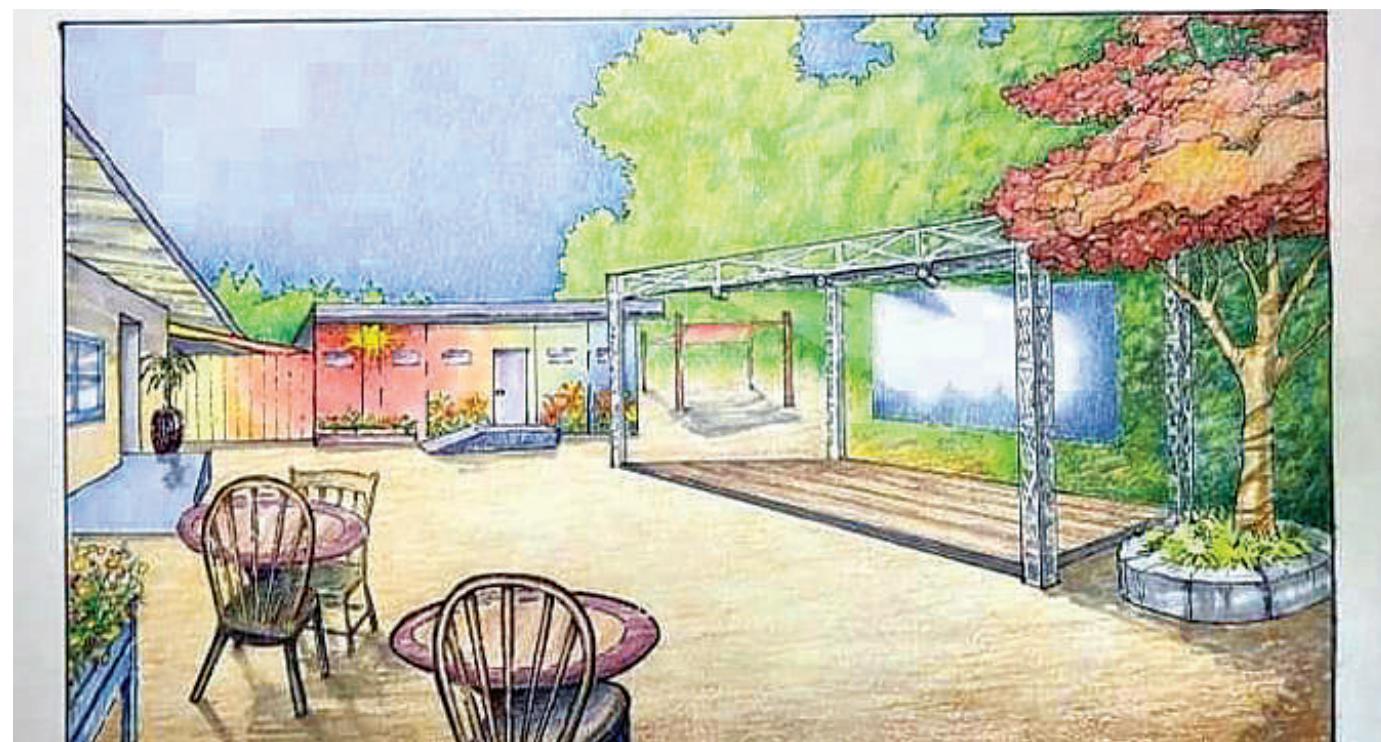

Imagine a Makerspace provided to the community for creative pursuits, using new technologies such as 3D printers, laser engraver, CNC router, screen-printing, vinyl cutter, LED electronics, crafted wood projects, a tool shop, and more!

Outside of this creative space, we plan to upgrade the gallery's outdoor courtyard, bringing the community a café style experience where residents can enjoy a coffee, watch local musicians perform on a newly built stage, and create art at an outdoor workshop area!

Find out more at sungallery.org/makerspace.

See the full proposal and VOTE online here (Hayward residents ages 10 and up can vote): <https://www.hayward-ca.gov/your-government/departments/city-managers-office/hayward-peoples-budget>.

Voting is open until May 20, 2022!

Increase Your Perennial Garden's Beauty this Spring

BY MELINDA MYERS
MELINDAMYERS.COM

Give your perennials a boost this spring with a topdressing of compost, aged manure, or other organic matter. It's a great way to revive tired gardens, improve a garden's overall health, and keep vibrant perennials healthy and blooming.

Research found topdressing your garden with compost every year or two provides most, if not all the nutrients that most perennials need. It feeds the soil, which in turn feeds your plants. Let a soil test report and your plant's performance determine if additional fertilizer is needed. Spring is a great time to add this as well.

When purchasing compost, it should appear light and fluffy. Take a whiff, it should not have a strong smell of ammonia, rotting food or another off odor. It should have a rich earthy smell and not be covered in flies or maggots. If jumping worms are a problem in your area, ask your compost provider how they are managing the compost to avoid spreading this invasive pest.

Once you have the needed organic matter, you are ready to get started. Pull the mulch back if needed. Keep it handy, so you can put it back in place once you finish amending the soil.

Topdressing is the first step in the process. Simply spread a one- to two-inch layer of the compost or other organic matter over the soil surface. Be careful not to bury the crown of your plants.

You can leave the compost sitting on the soil surface or lightly mix it into the top inch with a hand cultivator. Earthworms, ground beetles and other organisms will move it down into the soil and around plant roots where it is needed.

The second step is especially helpful for those with heavy or compacted soils. Once the compost is in place, do a bit of vertical mulching. Use an auger bit on your cordless drill. Simply drill holes into the soil between plants. This aerates the soil and pushes some of the compost into the soil, further boosting your efforts.

Vertical mulching helps speed up the process a bit by getting compost closer to plant roots and soil organisms that will help incorporate it into the soil. The openings created in the soil allow air, water and fertilizer to penetrate the soil surface and travel to the root zone.

Then be sure to return the mulch you removed from the garden or add mulch if needed. Maintaining an inch or two of organic mulch on the soil surface not only conserves moisture and suppresses weeds; it also continues to improve the soil. As organic mulch breaks down, it adds organic matter and nutrients to the soil.

Investing some time to create and maintain healthy soil goes a long way in making your garden a beautiful part of the landscape.

Tri-City Stargazer FOR WEEK: MAY 17, 2022

All Signs: This week starts with the only Full Moon in Scorpio all year. The challenge is this Full Moon triggers fast-moving change, which requires fast thinking. The wise choice might be to rely on our instincts rather than logic. This is because Mars is lined up with fuzzy Neptune, which makes our thinking suspect. On the upside, this promotes passion, romance and the arts. But the downside is tension between willingness to try new things and a tendency to cling to old habits. In most cases, the better choice will be to go with out-of-the-box thinking.

Aries the Ram (March 21-April 20):

Financial issues come to a head this week. This could be about your earnings, debt, the bank or your partner's wealth. Fortunately, a resolution will take place. This will help you use what you own in a more productive, useful way. You might restructure how you handle money, debt, or something you own. Later in the week, you're enthusiastic and upbeat! Old contacts with people from the past are encouraging. New information will help you bring an old decision back into perspective.

Taurus the Bull (April 21-May 20):

You certainly feel this Full Moon because it's the only Full Moon opposite your sign all year! The good news is that after Monday, solutions will present themselves. In particular, relations with partners and close friends will improve. However, expect confusion related to a friend or a group. An element of confusion might affect your decision about future goals. You might wonder if you should change them. My advice is to trust your gut instincts about this. By the end of the week, moneymaking ideas look good!

Gemini the Twins (May 21-June 20):

You might feel caught off guard as this week begins because this Full Moon vibrates in a quiet part of your chart. It could bring stress to health issues or work. Fortunately, these will be resolved. Nevertheless, relations with parents, bosses and authority figures will be confusing. You might question what others expect of you. You might doubt their abilities, or they might have doubts about you. Because you will investigate your motivations, you can trust your instincts. By the end of the week, you're happy and full of big ideas!

Cancer the Crab (June 21-July 21):

It will be challenging dealing with kids or friends at the beginning of the week. Fortunately, by mid-week, problems will be resolved. Despite the fact that travel plans or issues related to higher education, medicine and the law are confusing – nevertheless, you'll get in touch with what motivates you. You will define goals to have a better life for yourself. Behind-the-scenes activities or research might boost your reputation in the eyes of others. Stay tuned!

Leo the Lion (July 22-August 22):

This is a tough Full Moon because it's a Sun/Moon opposition in Fixed Signs (Taurus and Scorpio), and you are also a Fixed Sign. This means everyone is at odds with each other! You feel pulled between the demands of career and public reputation versus the demands of home and family. Meanwhile, confusion about finances, money with the government, your partner, taxes or debt might be a challenge. If you're not sure what to do – do nothing. (Instincts are a good thing, but with finances – not so much.)

Virgo the Virgin (August 23-September 22):

Be careful Sunday/Monday because this Full Moon will create an accident-prone situation. Therefore, be mindful. Pay attention to everything you say and do.

Furthermore, avoid controversial subjects when talking to others because they will escalate into nasty arguments. Some of this unpredictable energy is because relations with partners and close friends are confusing. Make no promises. Trust your gut. Nevertheless, philosophical issues are important to you. This means you will do your research. By the end of the week, you have good news for others.

Libra the Scales (September 23-October 22):

You feel a financial squeeze as this week begins. Fortunately, whatever problem you experience regarding flow, earnings or your relationship to other people's resources and assets might be quickly resolved. Meanwhile, issues related to your job might be confusing. You're prepared to give something your all, but suddenly, it's a changing landscape. Some of you will have this same confusion about a health issue. Later in the week, you will make strides dealing with shared property, taxes and debt. You will also be enthusiastic about travel plans!

Scorpio the Scorpion (October 23-November 21):

Relax and stay grounded while the only Full Moon in your sign all year is taking place. Naturally, this will stress your relationships. Fortunately, many problems will diminish and possibly disappear. Meanwhile, relations with kids are confusing. This same confusion will also apply to romance for some. While you have these feelings of confusion, do not act. An intense conversation with someone powerful might resolve these issues. Good news—assistance from others, or financial support at the end of the week is grand.

Sagittarius the Archer (November 22-December 21):

This Full Moon makes you uneasy because it's taking place in a hidden part of your chart. Be reassured that the concerns it raises will diminish in importance by midweek. Admittedly, confusion related to your family or home might make you feel paralyzed. The best thing to do will be nothing until you are confident. One thing is certain, you can introduce improvements to your job, your health and even to something related to a pet. Conversations with partners and close friends will be upbeat by the end of the week!

Capricorn the Goat (December 22-January 19):

The Full Moon taking place now will create havoc in your relations with kids, as well as tension with romantic partners. Issues intensify before a Full Moon, and after the Full Moon peaks, they diminish and sometimes disappear. Nevertheless, there is confusion about your daily schedule, interactions with others, and relations with siblings, relatives and neighbors. You might feel you are damned if you do and damned if you don't. Do nothing if you're not sure. Fortunately, you will think your way out of these challenges by the end of the week.

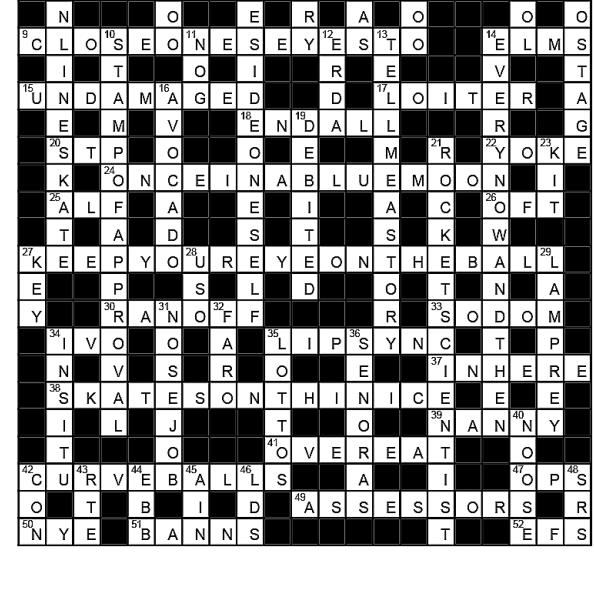

Aquarius the Water Bearer (January 20-February 18):

This is a challenging time because Sunday/Monday is a Full Moon in Fixed Signs (Moon in Scorpio, Sun in Taurus) and you also are a Fixed Sign. Naturally, it's

Folk music fun in the afternoon

SUBMITTED BY SHIRLEY SISK

An afternoon concert of American folk music and selected Celtic tunes performed by Golden Bough and featuring vocalists Margie Butler, Paul Espinoza and Kathy Sierra is set for Sunday, May 22 in Newark.

Golden Bough was founded more than 40 years ago with the ideas of combining Celtic music with American folk music. During this concert, Golden Bough will perform classic American folk songs and favorites from the American Folk Revival of the 1950s and 1960s.

Butler plays harp, pennywhistle, guitar and acoustic bass; Espinoza sings and plays guitar, mandolin, accordion, harmonica and acoustic bass, while Sierra also sings and plays violin, viola, guitar and acoustic bass.

Sponsored by League of Volunteers and Newark Arts Council, the free program will be in the Newark Junior High School Multipurpose Room. Complimentary refreshments will be served during intermission.

"I Think of Singing as One Big Belly Laugh"

SUBMITTED BY SHIRLEY GILBERT

It's hard to imagine any choirmaster with more energy and enthusiasm than East Bay People's Choir Director (EBPC) Sid Quinsaat. Quinsaat almost flies from piano to singers, joyfully imparting the words and melody of a new song to EBPC's members. Here, Quinsaat talks about their love of music, what conducting means to them and why folks should join EBPC.

Q: You play piano and guitar, sing and conduct. Were you musical as a kid? How did you learn to play and sing so well?

A: I was told by my parents that I could sing before I could talk. As a kid, I was always humming and singing. My dad loved the Beatles and James Taylor, and I just naturally sang along. I was six years old when I started learning the piano, and I started [choir] in fifth grade...I was in choirs in middle and high school as well as college. I went to the University of Michigan on a music education scholarship and when I was [there] I sang in a group called the G Men, an acapella choir. I came to California in 2014 and sang in the San Francisco Choral Artists for two years...So being part of the East Bay People's Choir is natural and a privilege.

Q: What was your first conducting gig?

A: It was in high school in 10th grade in Texas. When the teacher was away, and there was a sub, they would say: "You know the music – why don't you conduct?" I would lead the group and it seemed natural. My music education included the art of conducting. I took two levels of basic conducting – intermediate and advanced. And in a final concert in university, I would prepare the choir and in rehearsals do some conducting.

Q: You have an incredible amount of energy when rehearsing and conducting. You fly jump from place to place, and throw yourself into interpreting each song. What gets you moving?

A: I get so much joy out of singing and I'm excited to be able to share that experience with others. When I'm feeling blue, I go to the car and sing my heart out. The breath and the muscles we use when we sing are the same we use when we laugh. I think of singing as one big belly laugh. And I feel the same joy when I'm conducting. It fills my heart with happiness to be in front of all those eager singers. My energy and my enthusiasm when I conduct bring out my true self and personality. I feel conducting in my body and I just move. Quite frankly, I'm not even aware that I'm throwing myself into the music and the moment. It comes so easily.

Q: Why should people join the East Bay People's Choir?

A: We welcome everyone. You don't have to read music or audition or pay a fee. There's no stress and it's all just fun... Since we don't require the ability to read music, the way I teach a new song is to repeat the words again and again until it comes to us naturally. I can also show visually how the notes go up and down the scale with hand motions. I make recordings so that people can listen to our repertoire at home, and we create videos of every rehearsal.

Q: What Covid cautions are taken?

A: We make certain that [we follow local] guidelines. We're extra careful. You can't even be in the choir if you aren't fully vaccinated. We open our windows and even have filters. And, of course, we wear masks. Masks tend to dull the sound and make it difficult to understand the words. I overemphasize pronunciation and get as much music out of the group as possible.

Q: Has EBPC participated in any concerts recently?

A: We were part of our sister choir's Mission Peak Chamber Singers' concert entitled "On Children." It was on Saturday, April 23rd at Irvington Presbyterian Church. It was a playful repertoire of songs about children and when we were kids. Our choir sang two numbers: Big Rock Candy Mountain and If I Had a Hammer. We're planning another concert in June, so stay tuned.

Q: Anything else you would like to add?

A: While concerts are wonderful to shoot for, what I love about a choir isn't so much the performance part. It's taking the beautiful people in the choir through the journey of being together and making music together. That's the most exciting part for me.

Free Summer Concert

SUBMITTED BY NEWARK SYMPHONIC WINDS

Please join us for a free concert on the evening of Saturday, May 28!

We'll begin the evening's performance with "The Cowboys," composed by the great John Williams. Our next piece will be a three-part composition, "Prelude, Siciliano and Rondo," by Malcolm Arnold, which will be followed by "The Symphonic Gershwin," arranged by Warren Barker. It includes "An American in Paris," "Cuban Overture" and "Rhapsody in Blue." Our last piece before intermission will be "Variations on a Korean Folk Song," by John Chance.

The second half of our performance will begin with the music of the talented Pleasantones Clarinet Quartet featuring Tony Altwies, Margaret Bryant, Robert Mayfield and Sydney Moura. The symphony will then return to the stage and begin with "Festive Overture," by Dmitri Shostakovich, which will be followed by Frank Ticheli's beautiful composition based on "Amazing Grace". Next, we'll take you to the British Isles with Brian Balmages' "Three Celtic Dances," which include a Reel, Air and finally a Jig. Our final composition "March: Grandioso," by Roland Seitz, will surely get your feet moving.

We are once again extremely fortunate to have this performance sponsored by Fremont Bank Foundation. As always, the concert is free-of-charge, and no tickets are necessary. Simply come and enjoy the evening with us - and be certain to bring your family and friends.

We often have a full house at our performances; therefore, please plan on arriving a bit early to get the seating you prefer.

At this time a mask must be worn at all times when in the theatre by those two years old and older. Do note, our symphony musicians also will be wearing musician masks and will have filters on the bell of their instruments.

You can find more information about our performances at our web site: www.newarksymphonic.org.

Be safe and look twice for motorcycles

SUBMITTED BY NEWARK POLICE DEPARTMENT

In recognition of May as Motorcycle Safety Awareness Month, officials from Newark Police Department (NPD) are reminding drivers to always look twice for motorcyclists.

In an effort to promote road safety, NPD is sharing numerous safety tips for drivers and motorcyclists.

Drivers:

- Always check mirrors and blind spots before changing lanes.
- Do not follow a motorcycle too closely. Always keep a safe distance.
- If you see a motorcycle with a signal on, be careful. Be sure that the rider is turning before moving ahead.

Motorcyclists:

- Always wear a U.S. Department of Transportation-compliant helmet with eye protection.
- Wear leather or other sturdy clothing such as a jacket, pants, boots with nonskid soles and gloves. Add reflective strips or decals to your clothing and motorcycle to make it easier for drivers to see you.
- Ride defensively. Don't assume a driver can see you. Avoid riding in a driver's blind spot.
- Always keep your lights on, even during the day.

Lastly, both drivers and riders should never drive or ride under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. Funding for this program is provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Honoring the Classes of 2020, 2021, 2022

SUBMITTED BY CAL STATE EAST BAY

For the first time since 2019, Cal State East Bay graduates were able to attend a traditional commencement, replete with all of the pomp and circumstance that has been missing due to COVID-19 restrictions.

On May 12, Cal State East Bay recognized its graduating classes of 2020 and 2021 in the Amphitheatre on its Hayward campus.

Ceremonies for the Class of 2022 were held May 13-15.

Graduating Class of 2022, by the numbers

Bachelor's: 4328
Master's: 1153
Doctorate: 31

Youngest Undergraduate: 18
Oldest Undergraduate: 82
Youngest Post Baccalaureate: 22
Oldest Post Baccalaureate: 70
110 Veterans

Honorary Degrees

Cal State East Bay conferred honorary degrees to three exemplary Bay Area locals – Wayne Jordan, Dana King and Kristi Yamaguchi.

Jordan, a real estate developer and philanthropist, was honored at the May 12 ceremony celebrating the classes of 2020 and 2021. Jordan is a nationally recognized business, community and civic leader with deep ties to Oakland.

King has uplifted and informed communities of color through journalism and art. Formerly an award-winning broadcast journalist, she took up sculpting in retirement and crafts historical pieces depicting notable figures in African American history. She was honored during the May 14 ceremony for several College of Letters, Arts and Social Sciences departments.

Yamaguchi is an Olympic gold medalist, former professional figure skater, New York Times best-selling author, philanthropist and entrepreneur. A third-generation Asian American, Yamaguchi was born in Hayward and is best known for winning the gold medal for ladies singles ice skating at the 1992 Olympics. In 1996, Yamaguchi created the Bay Area-based Always Dream Foundation which is focused on early childhood literacy and access to high-quality books in underserved communities. Yamaguchi was honored at the May 15 ceremony by the teacher education department within the College of Education and Allied Studies.

Fremont students win top academic award

SUBMITTED BY LAURA FORREST

Officials from Fremont Unified School District (FUSD) recently announced 24 students representing each of the district's five high schools were named 2022 National Merit $2,500 Scholarship winners.

In their May 11 announcement, National Merit Scholarship Corporation officials said the awards are given to National Merit Finalists "judged to have the strongest combination of accomplishments, skills and potential for success in rigorous college studies."

These latest scholarship recipients join the 9 FUSD students previously announced as winners of corporate National Merit Scholarship awards on April 27. The newest FUSD scholarship recipients are:

American High School:

- Saanvi Agarwal
- Mihika A. Balaji
- Ananya Garg
- Vishwa A. Iyer
- Harshini Karthikeyan
- Janie Kuang
- Abinayaa Murugupandian
- Divya G. Ramaswamy
- Rahul Ravi
- Runxin Zhou
- Nyla Zia

Irvington High School:

- Anshul R. Govindu
- Michael Lan

John F. Kennedy High School:

- Jack W. Conner

Mission San Jose High School:

- Tushar Dalmia
- Isabella K. He
- Saborni Kundu
- Amanda Pang
- Yawen Xue

Washington High School:

- Aditya Iyengar

Each recipient of the National Merit $2,500 Scholarship was selected by a committee of college admissions officers and high school counselors. All finalists must have an outstanding academic record throughout high school, be endorsed and recommended by a high school official, write an essay, and earn SAT or ACT scores that confirm the student's earlier performance on the qualifying test. Scholarship winners also submitted applications demonstrating their academic record, community service, leadership, employment and honors/awards received.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation will name recipients of college-sponsored awards in June and July. Visit www.nationalmerit.org for more information.

Newark Civic Center Grand Opening

BY APRIL RAMOS

After its groundbreaking in 2019, the City of Newark held their much-anticipated Civic Center Grand Opening on Saturday, May 14. Newark Civic Center, located on the corner of Newark Boulevard and Thornton Avenue, is now home to David W. Smith City Hall, Alan L. Nagy Library and Newark Police Station.

Saturday's festivities included food trucks, games, old-school cars and the Alameda County mobile library. Chinese lion dancers performed their lunar dance for each of the city buildings to "bring good luck and peace."

"The Civic Center represents another chapter in Newark's history. This new center will not only provide us a place to meet the demands of our growing city, but is already becoming a social place where we can all gather" said City Manager David Benoun.

Mayor Alan L. Nagy and former Mayor David W. Smith expressed their gratitude and honor for having the city hall and library named after them. "While my name may be on that building, I want to let you know that I see all your names there supporting me," said former Mayor David W. Smith.

After city council and executive team members gathered in the middle of the Civic Center to complete the ribbon cutting, tours, live music and the library book sale began. On the tour it was explained that the stained-glass artwork from the previous city hall was able to be preserved and displayed outside each new city building to honor the city's past.

While honoring the past, former Mayor Smith looks towards the future with a poem he shared: "Roses are red and the wind blows free, the best of Newark is yet to be."

Ohlone College Foundation contributes towards student education

On May 4, Ohlone College Foundation held its annual Scholarship Awards Ceremony. The day marked the culmination of hard work done by Ohlone dollars. 50 incoming first year students from the Tri-City area received full-ride scholarships.

College Foundation staff, volunteers and scholarship recipients. As the DJ spun great R&B tunes, students were all smiles in anticipation of receiving their awards. Ohlone College Foundation awarded 127 Scholarships totaling over $249,000

The common myth is that you need straight-A's or a direct financial need to apply. In fact, the Ohlone foundation offers 41 types of scholarships with varying criteria that provide opportunities for a diverse group of scholarship winners.

Ohlone College offers 187 degrees and certifications to students of all ages who want to further their education.

"Our generous donors give because they believe in the students. They know the power of education and the difference it will make in their life," says Ohlone College Superintendent/President Dr. Eric Bishop.

WILLIAM MARSHAK

We have been listening to media "talking heads" pontificating about the political climate for quite a while. Depending on which news silo is preferred, warnings have been equally ominous, promising gloom, doom and disaster each morning, noon and night. Although input is possible if hosts allow it, time is limited and topic control is restricted by news "anchors" and "personalities." The onslaught of information, misinformation and outright falsehoods can be mind-numbing, leading to a reaction of confusion, disinterest, or worse... outright rejection of facts.

Although difficult to organize and separate this flow of data, it is the burden of living in a free society to attempt to do it. Glossy brochures and elaborate promises are the armament of well-financed candidates who in many cases have bowed to the lure of power, position and fortune. Few can resist and even fewer survive with their moral fiber intact. It is up to an informed and watchful electorate to reward those who can withstand the rigors of public life with a clear vision and purpose, closely matching our own.

In each election cycle, major political parties exert their grip on candidates through organizational and financial strength. Proof of this is evident by the avalanche of mail and media advertisements. Fast forward, mute and other editing functions are working overtime to combat the cacophony of political advertising currently bombarding the airwaves and mailboxes. As a counterpoint, Tri-City Voice offers a forum for all local candidates - at no cost - to present a brief statement to voters. It is our belief that every person seeking your vote should have an opportunity to outline why you should spend your birthright or naturalized voter franchise on them.

The value of each vote is incalculable since no one else can spend this currency. Voting is central to the premise of a free society. Without the people's voice, policies and actions are relegated solely to the whims of a small (sometimes minuscule) segment of the population. It is easy to follow the lead of others who insist that they know the true path of righteousness and justice, but this often is subterfuge and code for jealousy, hate and resentment. Slogans are easy... decisions based on reason and facts often difficult. Although a myriad of factors impels candidates to ask for your vote, your well-being is on the line with each ballot cast.

Primary contests are designed to allow political parties to pare those seeking office to a consensus of their members, but voters do not face these restrictions in California open primary contests. Therefore, it is imperative that, regardless of party affiliation or lack thereof, close attention is paid to the logic, character and policies advocated by each candidate. Those successful in continuing or succeeding others in office can and will have a profound impact on the lives of all voters.

The idea that the political process is someone else's problem and has nothing to do with real world issues is nonsense. Politicians impound and spend your money, make your laws and control your freedoms. The message to voters in all election cycles - primary or general, local, regional or national - is to pay attention and participate! Without your vote and care, outcomes can be catastrophic. Step up... it's your turn!

In drought-ravaged California, water use is up dramatically

BY ADAM BEAM ASSOCIATED PRESS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) -- California's drought is worsening and yet residents used more water in March than any month since 2015, defying pleas for conservation from Gov. Gavin Newsom and other authorities, state officials announced on May 10.

Water usage jumped nearly 19% in March compared to 2020, which was one of the driest months on record. Newsom last summer asked residents to voluntarily cut water use by 15% compared to 2020. He encouraged people to water their yards less often, run dishwashers less and install more efficient appliances.

The state's conservation rate gradually increased, aided by some intense fall and early winter storms that reduced water demand. But the first three months of 2022 have been some of the driest ever recorded. Water use increased slightly in January and February before exploding in March when compared to 2020 figures. Since July, the state has cut its overall water use by just 3.7%.

Newsom responded to the news by pledging to spend an extra $26 million on water conservation programs, in addition to the $190 million he proposed in January. In Los Angeles, Mayor Eric Garcetti announced residents and businesses would have to reduce outdoor landscape watering from three days per week to two. Irrigation makes up 35% of the city's water use.

A series of April storms have improved things slightly since March. Still, most of the state's reservoirs are well below their historic averages. Those reservoirs rely on melting snow to fill up for the dry summer months but the statewide snowpack was at just 27% of its historic average as of April 1.

Police release annual report in Fremont

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT POLICE DEPARTMENT

A new report released May 10 by Fremont Police Department (FPD) looks back at 2021 and shows that overall crime statistics in the city remained steady when compared to 2020. However, there was an uptick in crimes involving firearms and certain types of violence. Other crimes, including burglaries, trended down.

The report, released annually, describes FPD initiatives and efforts and also gives a summary of police services provided to Fremont residents, businesses and visitors. The goal of the report, according to FPD officials, is to provide information of public interest and reaffirm the department's commitment to transparency and accountability.

One of the biggest changes at FPD during 2021 was the appointment of Sean Washington as new police chief on October 2. In his opening message in the report, Washington describes meeting with city leaders, internal staff and others to gain insight for developing a smooth transition plan. New information about special deployments in the transition plan are also included.

The 23-page report gives readers an overview of the police department and how it works, its leaders, divisions, budget, goals and more. It also offers a five-year look at overall crime statistics, broken down by shootings, firearm arrests, homicides, serious assaults, robberies, grand thefts, auto thefts and burglaries.

The report is available online and can be downloaded at <https://fremontpolice.gov/AnnualReport>.

DNA evidence helps in arrest of elder abuse, robbery suspect

SUBMITTED BY FREMONT POLICE DEPARTMENT

A 22-year-old Hayward man was recently arrested in connection with the robbery and assault of a 75-year-old man in front of his Fremont residence. And detectives from Fremont Police Department (FPD) are crediting DNA evidence in helping them crack the case.

The case started July 6, 2020 when the man withdrew money from a bank in Newark. As the man drove back to his home, police said he was followed by three suspects in a white Chrysler 300. When the man parked his car in front of his home, two suspects exited the Chrysler and violently assaulted him and took his cash, jewelry and cellular phone, then fled the scene.

Arriving officers determined one of the suspects had touched the victim's clothing during the assault and collected the man's clothing for potential DNA analysis. Detectives from FPD Crimes Against Persons Unit assumed the investigation and went to work. Eventually, the DNA profile led to the arrest of Hayward resident David Spears. Police said that Spears has a lengthy criminal history including additional robbery cases in bank parking lots from neighboring jurisdictions.

In a May 12 statement, FPD said the case against Spears was presented to Alameda County District Attorney's Office which charged him with felony robbery and felony elder abuse. Spears is in custody and awaiting future court dates.

No information was released about the other two suspects in the case, which is still under investigation. Anyone with information is asked to email or call Detective Madsen at JMadsen@fremont.gov or (510) 790-6932. Anonymous tips can be made online at <https://local.nixle.com/tip/alert/5788118> or via text by typing TIP FREMONTPD followed by a short message to 888777.

Donald Roy Boddy

December 9, 1940 – May 10, 2022
Resident of Fremont

Donald Roy Boddy passed away May 10, 2022, at the age of 81 at his home in Fremont CA. He was born on Dec 9th, 1940 in Sutter Creek, CA to Edward and Vivian Boddy. Don was the middle child of three children, his older sister was Anne Boddy, and his younger sister is Nancy Frost. Don grew up in Hayward CA, graduating from Hayward High School and then attending San Mateo Jr College where he received his associate degree.

Don served in the Air Force as a psychological training technician from 1960 to 1964 where he proudly represented his country. After his service, Don spent 35yrs in the Sheet Metal Fabrication Industry. On September 25th, 1965 he married the love of his life Patricia "Pat" Culbertson. They had three children: Brian (Carolyn), Darren (Sheri), and Jennifer (David), and spent the last 50 years living in Glenmoor.

Don was an avid Forty-Niners and San Francisco Giants fan who was always decked out in team attire and would rarely miss watching games with Pat. In recent years, he loved watching his grandkids play soccer, basketball, lacrosse, golf, karate, taekwondo, swimming, and dance classes. He loved all of his grandchildren: RJ, Jonathan, Morgan, Rachel, Ella, and Wyatt.

In the last 25-years, Don was a member of the "19th Holers" where he enjoyed being on the golf course with his friends, especially their yearly Reno Golf tournament. He also enjoyed taking cruise vacations with Pat to their favorite destinations.

Don will always be remembered for his smile, love for his family, and generosity.

Memorial Service will be held on Friday, May 27th, 2022 at 11 am. at Fremont Memorial Chapel 3723 Peralta Blvd., Fremont. Family and friends will gather after the services at Swiss Park in Newark, CA from 12-3 pm.

Ohlone Renegades lose Game 2, rebound to move on to Norcal Finals

SUBMITTED BY ERIC DONATO

The Ohlone College Renegades (Fremont) lost to Los Medanos College Mustangs (Pittsburg) 6-14 in Game 2 of the California Community College Athletic Association (CCCAA) series playoff on Saturday, May 14th. The first game of the three-game series on Friday was a tremendous win for the Renegades, scoring 20-7. The loss on Saturday to the visiting team tied the series and forced a final game on Sunday, May 15th.

The Renegades led the first three innings with runs coming from Jeter Ybarra's single and double, and Jaden Sheppard's single. Shortstop Stevie Hom's sacrifice ground ball brought in the fourth run at the top of the fourth inning. The Mustangs overtook the lead with rallies in both the fourth and sixth innings, pulling in impressive six and four runs respectively, capitalizing on errors.

The lead was too big for the home team to catch up despite earnest efforts with singles from Stevie Hom in the sixth and Jeter Ibarra's third RBI in the top of the ninth. The visiting Los Medanos team added two final runs in the eighth inning to win game two 6-14 and tie the series. Renegade's pitching rotation included Sean Fekete, Manato Tateno, Cade Castillo, and Tzu-Chun Yen.

In the final game of the series with Ohlone vs Los Medanos Sunday, May 15th, the Mustangs scored twice in the first inning and added another run in the fourth inning to take a commanding 3-run lead over the Renegades. However, the Renegades finished the season as the top seed for a reason as they rebounded in the bottom of the fifth inning for three runs to tie the game. A tense stand-off ensued for the right to continue to Norcal finals competition against the Feather River Golden Eagles (Quincy) until the bottom of the 10th inning when the Renegades scored the winning run!

Clearbot Neo autonomously clears plastic from harbors

THE ROBOT REPORT

BY BRIANNA WESSLING

Open Ocean Engineering's Clearbot Neo is a robotic boat that autonomously navigates harbors, canals and rivers to collect trash that would otherwise wash into the ocean.

Around 14 million tons of plastics end up in the ocean every year, according the International Union for Conservation of Nature. 95% of that plastic, according to the United Nation, comes from 10 major rivers.

Clearbot's creators, Sidhant Gupta and Utkarsh Goel, began working on the robot after a trip to Bali, where they noticed local workers heading out onto the water in small boats, or even surfboards, to manually clear trash from the sea so it didn't wash onto the shore. The two sought to automate the slow, manual process. Shortly after graduating from Hong Kong University in 2019, Clearbot was born.

Clearbot Neo, the latest version of the robot, is about three meters long and is powered by a solar-powered electric motor. It autonomously identifies and collects floating garbage in the water. One robot is able to collect a metric ton of trash a day.

Additionally, Clearbot Neo can be fitted with a bespoke boom to help clean up localized oil and fuel spills. The robot can collect up to 15 liters of pollutant a day.

Clearbot Neo is equipped with a two-camera detection system. One camera monitors the water's surface and searches for trash to clear, as well as any obstacles or marine life. As the robot moves across the water, it scoops up trash onto an on-board conveyor belt between its dual hulls.

The robot's second camera photographs every piece of trash that comes across the conveyor belt. The image, along with the GPS location of where Clearbot Neo picked it up, is sent to the company's compliance system hosted on Microsoft's Azure platform.

Microsoft has played an important role in the development of Clearbot Neo. The company received an AI for Earth grant from Microsoft in Spring 2020, which helped them to build their AI model, also on the Azure platform, over the next year.

With Azure, the data Clearbot Neo collects, along with sea current and tide information, can help environmentalists and marine authorities better identify sources of trash in the water.

"We're finding out how the trash ends up in the water in the first place," Gupta said. "It adds a lot of transparency to the process of marine clean-up. We generate data about what's in the water, what's the make-up of the stuff that's there, how much of it is recyclable and what materials we should be focusing on."

Clearbot Neo has, so far, only been put to use in waters in Hong Kong, where the company is based. However, Gupta and Goel are seeking to globalize their solution to help clean waters everywhere.

Brianna Wessling is an Associate Editor, Robotics, WTHW Media. She can be reached at bwessling@wtwhmedia.com.

CASHIER'S CHECK DRAWN ON A STATE OR NATIONAL BANK, A CHECK DRAWN BY A STATE OR FEDERAL CREDIT UNION, OR A CHECK DRAWN BY A STATE OR FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, SAVINGS ASSOCIATION, OR SAVINGS BANK SPECIFIED IN SECTION 5102 OF THE FINANCIAL CODE AND AUTHORIZED TO DO BUSINESS IN THIS STATE; AT THE FALLON ST. EMERGENCY EXIT OF THE ALAMEDA COUNTY COURTHOUSE, 1225 FALLOON ST., OAKLAND, CA 94612 all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and State described as: MORE ACCURATELY DESCRIBED IN SAID DEED OF TRUST. The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 303 BARTON DRIVE, FREMONT, CA 94536 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be held, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, condition, or encumbrances, including fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust, to pay the remaining principal sums of the note(s) secured by said

Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is: $202,686.35 If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and a written Notice of Default and Election to Sell. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagor, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 096468-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 916-939-0772, or visit this internet website http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-14-650701-RY to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Freeway cameras coming to the East Bay

SUBMITTED LT. RAY KELLY, ALAMEDA COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE

A network of strategically placed cameras will be installed at 50 locations in four California counties, including Alameda and Contra Costa, in a pilot program to combat freeway violence announced May 13 by the governor's office.

Governor Gavin Newsom said his office will fund the program which will feature 200 advanced CCTV cameras along busy freeways and other thoroughfares to help investigators solve freeway violence cases. It's also hoped the cameras will be a deterrent to would-be criminals who intend to commit freeway violence.

Alameda County Sheriff Greg Ahern was very vocal about the need for these cameras in the aftermath of the freeway killings of 2-year-old Jasper Wu, Honorary Alameda County Deputy Sheriff, David Nguyen, Cal Basketball Hall of Famer, Gene Ransom and several other victims of highway violence.

"I am very thankful to Governor Newsom for taking this quick action to keep our communities safe as our motorists travel on our highways. I believe these cameras will help deter violent crime on the highways and will be a useful tool to solve these very difficult cases should they occur," Ahern said.

Under the program, East Bay cameras will be installed along portions of Interstate 880, 580, State Route 4, 24, and 185.

Cameras also will be installed in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Hayward property owners can be cited for illegal fireworks

SUBMITTED BY CITY OF HAYWARD

Property owners in Hayward where illegal fireworks activity takes place or emanates from may face fines of up to $5,000 under an amended nuisance ordinance that went into effect May 5.

Under the ordinance, owners of properties where fireworks occur or originate from can be cited and face progressively increasing fines of $1,200, $3,000 and $5,000 for a first, second and third incident, respectively. The updated ordinance was unanimously voted on by Hayward City Council in April as a way to enhance the city's ability to enforce its fireworks ban.

These civil nuisance citations can be issued for fireworks activity witnessed by a police officer, firefighter or Code

Enforcement personnel, or reported by a member of the public and confirmed by city officials. In addition, people who use or sell fireworks in Hayward are subject to criminal citation by Hayward police and can be criminally prosecuted.

For more information about illegal fireworks enforcement in Hayward, visit the city's website at www.hayward-ca.gov, then type "All fireworks are illegal in the city of Hayward" into the search box and follow the link.

To report illegal fireworks activity, contact Hayward Police Department at (510) 293-7000, the Code Enforcement Division of Hayward Development Services Department at (510) 583-4143. To report fire resulting from fireworks or any other cause, call 911.

2022 Primary Election Candidates Statements

12TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Glenn Kaplan

Small Business Owner

www.glennkaplan4congress.com

Our government is failing us every single day. The ultrarich get tax cuts while the rest of us can barely afford healthcare and a decent education. Our infrastructure crumbles, the right to vote is under siege, yet our so-called representatives do nothing, listening only to wealthy donors—their only true constituency.

I grew up here, went to high school in Oakland, taught at public schools, and worked as a journalist before starting a business here, turning an abandoned space into a successful community hub. I saw firsthand the failure of the federal bureaucracy in response to small businesses during the pandemic.

I'm running as an independent because both parties are failing us. Our entrenched leaders have proved that they're not up to the job. They don't play by the same rules as the rest of us. They waste time on divisive identity politics and symbolic legislation while real people, neighborhoods and businesses languish. The acrimony and gridlock are breaking our country. People who work for a living need actual solutions: fair taxation, increased funding for education and scientific research, single-payer healthcare, real support for neighborhood businesses.

If elected, I promise you'll have a representative who listens to you, fights for you, and is committed to working with all sides to bring real change. I support real campaign finance reform. That's why I won't accept money from special interest groups. I won't be captive to the demands of any party. I will answer only to the needs of you, my constituents.

Barbara Lee

Ned Nuerg

Hello, my name is Ned Nuerg, I am running for Congress in District 12, intending to unseat Barbara Lee. The intent of my campaign is to wake up "We the People" to our responsibilities as Citizens of our Republic, the United States of America—a sovereign nation. In the Preamble to our Constitution, we find our purpose is to "promote the general welfare". I propose this is accomplished by enabling the "pursuit of happiness" of each of our Citizens. I define a person's inalienable right of happiness to be the freedom to pursue whatever endeavor/s give them a full life.

To deliver on that direct, clear intention/purpose, we- each of us- are required to take a "mountain top view" of our Nation. Are we a happy people? Are we a healthy people? Are we a fed people? Are we a housed people? Are we a peaceful people? Are we a sovereign nation?

Today the answer is a resounding No!

It is not the role of any government to give these conditions to the people. It is the role of our government to exemplify these conditions and to enable circumstances through which the people are able to build these conditions for their families. Yes! Their Families; I assess that we as a nation are as strong as our Families. Based on the current state of the majority of our people, our government is failing in its mandate.

In order to reverse that failure, I propose the first step to be replacing our current representatives with people not beholden to any financial interests; people beholden solely to their constituents. Further steps then include ending the Federal Reserve System, replacing it with an American System of Political Economy which provides credit and opportunity to improve our country's infrastructure in every area of our lives. Building a sovereign nation which enables every Citizen to be happy, healthy, fed, and housed; at peace with each other and with other sovereign nations.

I am Ned Nuerg
Ned Nuerg for Congress

Alison Hayden

Steve Iyer

I immigrated to America 36 years ago as an engineer and after a 30+ year career in energy and environment, am now the CEO of a solar company. I attribute my success to strong family values, being pragmatic and reaching conclusions based on proven facts. I cherish the freedoms, opportunities, and the welcoming nature of our great nation, which I believe is at the root of its success. My wife, children and I live in the Tri-Valley area and embrace its vibrant diversity.

As a grateful patriot, I will represent you with independence, integrity, and honesty, and solemnly promise not to embarrass you. I am running because I care deeply about your pocketbook issues and security. Furthermore, the difference between America-first policies and progressive policies has never been starker. Over the past year, I have been outraged by the rising costs, broken borders, the defund movement and senseless attacks on police, women, and minorities, much of which has been caused or condoned by the liberals. The economic and competitive foundation of our country has been severely weakened by the progressive, woke ideology. I have a clear, fiscally conservative plan for keeping us competitive by guaranteeing our energy independence, keeping taxes low, strengthening small businesses, onshoring critical industries to create high-paying jobs, and continuing with the market-driven pathway to carbon-dioxide reduction. As your representative, I will ensure that any country that seeks to trade with us reduces its carbon footprint and report disease outbreaks transparently.

I strongly support parental input into school curriculum and funding private school choice with tax dollars. I would severely penalize selling of illegal drugs near schools, and prosecute nations that provide the raw materials for their manufacture. I would prioritize strengthening police and border security, enforcing all laws, deporting illegal criminals, stopping the flow of dangerous drugs, and reducing homelessness by refocusing funds allocated towards rehabilitation and retraining efforts. I welcome more legal immigration, including reducing wait times and reunifying families. Instead of rewarding a five-term candidate who has not served you well, I ask you to honor me with your vote.

James Peters

My name is James Peters (D) and I am a grassroots progressive running for Congress to put America's working families first again. I have watched how the progressive wing of the party is silenced time and time again while they raise issues that matter to me and to everyday Americans: canceling all student loans, passing Medicare for all, and leaving a green planet and healthy democracy for future generations. As the son of a blue-collar union family, as a millennial who works a night job as a waiter on top of my day job in tech just to survive, and as an outraged American, I say, "enough is enough. Put working people first again".

I am running to give voters a viable choice on their November ballot for the first time in ten years. Every election, Eric Swalwell runs against an unelectable non-viable Republican who loses by a whopping average of 43%. Last time two Democrats faced off in a November election, victory was decided by just under 5%.

Unlike Rep Swalwell, I support term limits for Congress and I support ending Citizens United. I will not accept a cent from Fox News or corporate PACs. Not only does Rep Swalwell accept campaign donations from Fox News, he also accepts PAC money from Amazon (whilst staying silent as their workers fight to unionize). He says we need to publicly finance elections instead of enacting term limits to safeguard our democratic process. I disagree with him about accepting campaign contributions from corporations; I believe elections are a sacred right and are not for sale. Politicians should never accept money from corporate PACs, and Representatives in Congress need term limits.

Democracy is on the ballot. And a competitive election in November is more important than ever before. A vote for James in the June primary, is a vote for competitive viable election options this November. In place of a non-viable unelectable pro-Trump Republican who Swalwell will trounce, vote this June to have a people-funded progressive Democrat challenging a corporate-funded establishment Democrat on the ballot this November. When the people vote, progress wins.

Liam Miguel Simard

My name is Liam Miguel Simard and I'm running for Congress because our current Representatives have failed us.

I'm running for Congress because we cannot continue to wait. We cannot continue begging for change. Housing is unaffordable. Healthcare and childcare are unaffordable. Education is unaffordable. Gas and food are unaffordable. We are all struggling.

The American economy has been raided by multinational corporations who owe no allegiance to the American people, our country, or our flag. They use corrupt campaign contributions and high-dollar lobbyists to bribe our Representatives, year after year, twisting every inch of our government to their will.

I'm the only candidate who has pledged to never take a single dollar from any PAC or foreign lobbyist. I'm the only candidate who has wholeheartedly rejected the corrupting influence of partisan politics. And I'm the only candidate who will fight for real economic and political change in America.

In 2012, my dad was nearly killed in a workplace accident, leaving him permanently disabled. As my dad's guardian, I've fought corporate greed on his behalf for nearly a decade. As your Representative, I'll continue fighting against corporate greed, against foreign lobbying, against corrupt campaign contributions, against backroom deals, and against the Kleptocracy.

It's time our government recognizes the real problems we face. It's time for a Representative who will actually represent us. My name is Liam Miguel Simard, and I will be that Representative.

Visit www.LiamMiguel.com to learn more, and vote for Liam Miguel Simard for Congress by returning your mail-in ballot before June 7. We cannot continue to wait.

I have lived in the beautiful Bay Area since 1992 and have worked in the field of Software Engineering. I was born in Punjab, India and am a Sikh. I did my Bachelors in Mechanical Engineering from IIT Delhi. I did my Masters in Computer Science and Operations Research from North Carolina State University, Raleigh. I look up to my father, Mukhtiar Singh, as my role model. I ran for the GOVERNOR of California in 2021.

I am running for Congress to Bring Back Quality of Life. A good quality of life in a way can be characterized as experiencing the values of Respect, Integrity, Balance, and Sharing in one's life. My team and I will pursue this goal while putting in practice these values as well. We will work with all the parties in the legislature to tackle the everyday issues that people face. Current issues that we will focus on will address food, education, healthcare and safety. Essentially, we will use a fair and Balanced approach to make everyone's life better.

We want to bring back these core values:

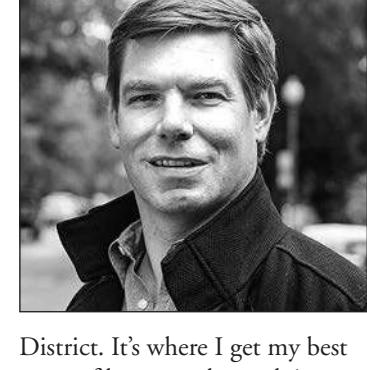

- Respect - Respect for everyone
- Integrity - Work honestly
- Balance - Balanced decisions
- Sharing - Share your good fortune

I have spent a lot of time visiting every corner of the District. It's where I get my best sense of how people are doing. While I'm hopeful for the future, it is also clear that more work is needed to expand opportunity for all Americans. That's why I'm running for re-election to Congress.

My priorities in Congress continue to be the priorities that my constituents tell me are important: providing new opportunities toward prosperity, ensuring access to affordable health care, keeping seniors financially secure, providing good schools and useful skills to our children, and keeping the American dream within reach for every person in this country.

As a former prosecutor, I'm committed to making our communities safe and advancing justice and accountability. To that end, I introduced legislation to give more rights to the families of homicide victims.

On the House Intelligence Committee, I'm protecting our democracy and rule of law. At home, I helped create an authority to raise money to expand BART to Livermore, secured funding for Valley Link, and brought home more than $11 million to fund local projects, including a new veterans park in downtown Livermore and critical upgrades to the East Bay Municipal Utility District's Upper San Leandro Water Treatment Plant.

I've never been more passionate about the work I'm doing and more grateful to my constituents for fighting alongside me.

I would be honored to continue serving you.

I'm running to represent people in Hayward, Livermore, Pleasanton, Union City, Castro Valley, Sunol, and portions of Dublin, Fremont, and San Leandro.

I was born and raised in a modest San Francisco Chinatown home. I graduated from public schools and worked hard in entry level jobs – security guard, janitor, and ride-share driver. I currently own and operate a successful small business. This allowed me to become a first-time Hayward homeowner.

Like you, I feel the American Dream is slowly being eroded by bad state and federal laws. These laws punish the middle and working class, while favoring the rich and special interests.

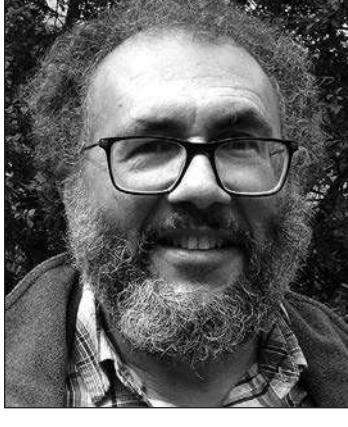

I am rescuing our American Dream. I'm a man of the people with practical, fresh, and bold solutions. These solutions are for all Americans, regardless of political party, status, or income. Only a man of the people, outside of the Washington DC elite, would dare to do this.

Vote for me on the June 7 primary and November 8 general election ballots.

17TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Joe Dehn

Joe Dehn is a resident of Sunnyvale. He was born in

New York, graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a degree in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, worked in the computer industry, and lived in Connecticut, Oregon, and Colorado before moving to California in 1993.

He has been a member of the Libertarian Party for 38 years, elected to many positions within the party at the local, state, and national level. He served multiple terms as a member of the Libertarian National Committee, including two terms as National Secretary. He created the Libertarian Party's original web site, the first of any political party, in 1994. He is currently the County Chair for Santa Clara County.

He is running for Congress this year to offer a radically different alternative to the failed policies of the Republicans and Democrats. Under both of those parties the government has grown to monstrous proportions, come to dominate every aspect of American life, and continues to meddle in the affairs of other nations — none of which are good for us as citizens or taxpayers.

He proposes the exact opposite platform: (1) drastic cuts in the size and expense of the federal government, big enough to eliminate the deficit that is fueling inflation while at the same time permanently reducing taxes; (2) ending U.S. military involvement in wars between and within other countries; (3) protecting individual rights by ending all the domestic "wars" as well, including the insane war on drugs, the unconstitutional war on guns, and the ugly war on immigrants.

Outside of politics, his main activities relate to square dancing. He is a caller/instructor for several local clubs, has been named a "Top Ten Caller" several times by the Santa Clara Valley Square Dancers Association, and is active in several committees of CALLERLAB, the International Association of Square Dance Callers. He enjoys dancing all programs of modern square dancing from Basic through C-4, and also volunteers as an officer of several square dance organizations and serves as webmaster for the California Council of Square Dancers.

Respected voters, I am appealing you all that I am running for Congress District 17, and I am asking for your help, support, your endorsement and most important is your vote on June 7, 2022. I am living in this District over 30 years as a successful businessman. I feel I can bring a fresh outlook to our community and legislature. Throughout the years, I have seen several notable issues our community is facing like housing, public safety, debt free college education, equal pay to women, environmental and infrastructure matters, universal affordable quality healthcare & prescription drug prices, federal minimum wages, job markets, and teachers' salaries. Strengthening our democracy, creating a 21st century immigration system.

We need to work on all these issues that matter to voters and show the voters that we still have the ability to deliver the results. Also, we need to work on empowering our green energy and use our own natural resources and no dependency on the foreign crude oil imports.

We have limited financial source for our community from the government for skilled training and free local transportation to Seniors.

I have a BA degree in finance and economics. I have knowledge and experience, what can be done to make it better for our communities and citizens. I want this district to continue as a wonderful place to live, work and play for the future generations. I am looking forward to serving you. Thank you for your vote.

State Candidates

20TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

Jennifer Esteen

My name is Jennifer Esteen, RN. I'm running for Assembly because working families need a champion who can make sure that all Californians have what we need to thrive.

As a nurse, working mother, and community leader who was once a single mom on the brink of being unhoused, I know firsthand that our community does not have the representation it deserves in Sacramento. To me, representation means bringing my community and my values with me to Sacramento. I'm running for Assembly, because working families need a champion who can make sure that all Californians have what we need to thrive.

We are facing so many crises - housing, homelessness, healthcare, economic instability, climate change, education and more. There are currently no nurses in the state legislature, and yet our state is currently navigating an ongoing pandemic, and millions of people do not have coverage to access help when they are unwell. I have the firsthand experience and know how to effectively address this crisis and so many more.

The pandemic didn't cause all of these issues - but it shined a bright light on the challenges our community has been faced with for decades. Today we must have a champion and a leader who will always put our needs and priorities first, not someone who makes corporations and special interests the priority.

Given my broad range of experience, I bring a unique understanding about how the policies made in Sacramento are implemented and actually impact our communities. I will fight to ensure that wealthy special interests pay their fair share and redistribute those funds into housing, healthcare, education, and fighting climate change so all Californians can have what we need to thrive.

I'm willing to stand up to these special interest groups and lead the fight for big, bold policies that will actually keep our communities safe and healthy. We live in the richest region of the richest state of the richest country in one of the richest moments of our history. Our community deserves better!

Joe Grcar

Great states do not automatically stay great. California is losing population for the first time in history. My opponents say it is because California is unaffordable. Their solution is to bring more people here and to give them benefits like subsidized housing and medical care. We already pay for our own housing and medical care, and if we have to pay for other people, then how does that make California affordable for us? My opponents are auditioning to be new faces for the nonsensical policies that tarnished our state. Do not listen to them. Keep your eyes on what is important for your family.

Everyone who lives here chooses to be exceptional. We always knew California was expensive, and we worked harder. California is not a free benefit; it has to be earned. No state made more inventions, built more industries, and raised more families to prosperity, than California. Join me in working hard to make California golden again.

My campaign theme is: Southern Alameda County First. We live in a beautiful part of California, and I have three plans to make it better.

First, a sandy beach. Alameda island constructed a beach a hundred years ago; meanwhile, the Hayward shoreline is road rubble. We can extend Monarch Drive southward with a sandy beach on one side and protected wildlife areas on the other. This would be a terrific place for outings, and it is nearby.

Second, toll tunnels. Elon Musk's Boring Company can build tunnels to take through traffic off our freeways. Cars must be electric by 2035, which makes tunnels simpler and cheaper. We should link Dublin to the San Mateo bridge. Imagine the speed and the reduction in surface traffic! Where else would you put a toll tunnel?

Third, infrastructure for schools. The state requires cities to build housing, which increases the need for schools. Alameda County's share of President Biden's 1.2 trillion dollars of infrastructure is 6 billion. Let's build schools not highways.

Join me in putting Southern Alameda County First, and thank you for choosing me to represent you in Sacramento.

Shawn Kumagai

Shawn Kumagai is a third-generation veteran and the son of a first-generation Japanese immigrant. Kumagai, who has served 20 years in the U.S. Navy and is a lifelong Democrat, made history as the first openly gay councilmember elected in Dublin. He worked his way through school while on active duty, and as a Naval linguist holds a degree in Mandarin Chinese and a Masters in Instructional Science and Technology from CSU Monterey Bay. Kumagai is a workforce education specialist, who has developed training programs to help service members build pathways to jobs and trades.

Kumagai in 2018 ran a relentless grassroots door knocking campaign that made history and elected him as the first openly gay member of the Dublin City Council. Since then, Kumagai has been delivering transit-oriented affordable housing for seniors and low-income residents, helping local small businesses stay afloat during the pandemic, expanding good-paying green jobs, and working to make the city safer. In 2020, his council colleagues unanimously elected him Vice Mayor. As a Navy Reservist, he has achieved the rank of Master Chief Petty Officer and is assigned to an intelligence unit at Camp Parks. Kumagai also serves as the District Director for Assemblywoman Rebecca Bauer-Kahan, getting results from Sacramento for Alameda County families. Today, he is the only elected official running for the District 20 seat, and lives in Dublin with his husband, Alex, where they raised his younger brother, Kevin, who recently joined the U.S. Army.

In the Assembly, Kumagai is committed to expanding affordable housing options for Alameda County families, providing mental health and job training services to reduce homelessness, reducing traffic congestion on the 580/680 and 880/238 interchanges, improving public transit, championing small businesses and creating good-paying jobs. Learn more at www.ShawnKumagai.com and vote on June 7th.

Liz Ortega

For over two decades, California Labor Leader Liz Ortega-Toro

has led the fight for vibrant, healthy, and diverse communities by working to create job opportunities and provide healthcare for the most vulnerable.

As Statewide Political Director for AFSCME Local 3299, the University of California's largest employee union, Liz secured the passage of state legislation to maintain and protect essential service jobs at every UC campus.

The first Latina in history to be elected Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the Alameda Labor Council, Liz has been an East Bay leader in the fight for an equitable minimum wage to support working families as housing and cost of living has skyrocketed in our region.

Liz serves on the Alameda County Vaccine Equity Task Force where she fought to secure paid sick leave and hazard pay for essential public safety, health providers, and frontline workers.

As a member of the Alameda County Workforce Investment Board, Liz was instrumental in helping job seekers develop valuable workplace skills and find employment within the region we all love.

When Liz was three, her undocumented mother traveled hundreds of miles to California with Liz and her infant brother to seek the American dream. Says Liz, "My family has struggled to achieve our American dream through hard work, community support and a belief that we could have a better life. Unfortunately, for many in our communities, that American dream is getting further and further out of reach. I'm running for Assembly to level the playing field so every family has a chance of achieving that dream."

Liz, husband Jason (a former School Board Member) and daughter Yamara live in San Leandro, where Yamara attends local public schools.

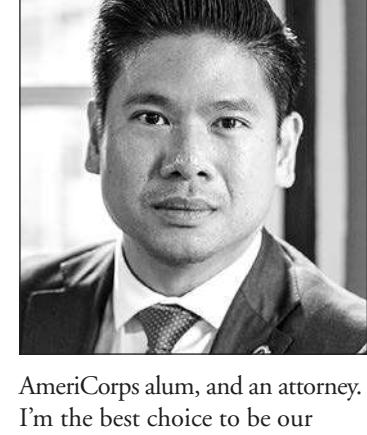

24TH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

Bob Brunton

Kansen Chu

Lan Diep

I'm Lan Diep, a former San Jose city councilmember, an AmeriCorps alum, and an attorney. I'm the best choice to be our district's next assemblymember. I've been endorsed by the East Bay Times, who independently determined that I'm the best-informed candidate on the issues – more knowledgeable than the incumbent and previous assemblymember who served for six years – after interviewing all candidates for over an hour, testing our knowledge and how we would address the challenges facing California.

I'm the only attorney, the only candidate with national service experience, and the only person who's dealt concretely with homelessness and our housing shortage on the ground level. The others have experience in elected office but none have worked with neighborhoods and advocates to successfully site a tiny-home village for homeless residents. That experience of listening, compromising, and arriving at a solution is a skill I'll bring to Sacramento.

This ability to focus on a problem and work with others to make progress is something I learned during my time as an AmeriCorps member, where I spent two years in Mississippi after the BP Oil Disaster, helping victims. In moments of crisis, you need to get things done and you work with whoever is there. You don't deepen divides. You bring people together and you try to bring calm to chaos. For my efforts during that time, I was recognized by President Obama as a Champion of Change and by President George H. W. Bush as a Daily Point of Light.

My parents are Vietnamese refugees who restarted their lives in America. From nothing, they were able to buy a home, join the middle class, and provide for our family. Yet, I'm not sure the same opportunities available to my parents are available to today's current generation. We must fix that. We need to make housing more affordable. We must make our neighborhoods safer. And we need to invest to make California resilient for the future. I'll focus on getting things done and uniting Californians around a common agenda. I'd be honored to have your vote. Please learn more about me at www.landiep.com.

Teresa Keng

About Teresa Keng, Candidate for State Assembly in the 24th Assembly District

Teresa Keng is a twice-elected Fremont City Councilwoman, first-generation immigrant, small business owner, and mother to two children with disabilities, pursuing a doctoral degree in Education Leadership from San Jose State University. She is the only elected leader from Alameda County and only woman running for Assembly in the new 24th Assembly District.

While on the Fremont City Council, she voted to raise the minimum wage, build more affordable housing, and act with urgency to address the threat of climate change. Teresa has championed community-driven solutions to combat hate crimes and violent crimes.

As a longtime resident of Fremont, and as a small business owner (she owns a restaurant in Fremont), Teresa brings perspectives that are needed in our state government. She understands that there is deep anxiety about whether the American Dream will exist for the next generation. She is running for Assembly because she knows we can do better.

Teresa will strengthen California schools to ensure all students are prepared for 21st century jobs. She is focused on making sure that no child slips through the cracks opened by remote learning during the pandemic. She is also championing a new UC Silicon Valley to help Bay Area students tap into the incredible entrepreneurial and creative spirit in our region.

Her priorities also include creating economic opportunity and making it easier for small businesses to operate by closing the wage gap, addressing income inequality, creating good-paying jobs, and enshrining reproductive health care in our state constitution.

Over the past 20 years, Teresa has regularly taught English to seniors. Councilwoman Keng also enjoys volunteering for her local PTA and participating in the Fremont Rotary Club. Teresa is involved with the local organization SAVE (Safe Alternatives to Violent Environments), helping women and children escape domestic violence and rebuild their lives.

Councilwoman Keng is a graduate of Newark Memorial High School and UCLA. She resides in Fremont with her husband Robert, an engineer and U.S. Marine veteran of the Persian Gulf War, and their two children, who both attend public schools in Fremont.

Alex Lee

As your Assemblymember, I'm grateful every day to serve and represent our community. Growing up in the Bay Area, I've seen too many friends and families priced out of the East Bay. That's why I'm running for re-election: to protect the progress we've made and continue fighting for our home.

We have accomplished so much together: assisting families through the pandemic, investing historic levels of funding for our schools, and tackling the housing crisis with new solutions. But we still have more work to do.

As promised, I continue to reject campaign contributions from corporations, allowing me to challenge the entrenched special interests that impede progress. From day one I have fought for solutions to climate change, universal healthcare, government transparency, and housing affordability because I am accountable to you – the people.

That's why I'm proud to be endorsed by over 100 local leaders and organizations like: US Senator Alex Padilla, State Senator Bob Wieckowski, Assemblymember Bill Quirk, Alameda County Supervisor Richard Valle, Fremont City Councilmembers Jenny Kassan and Teresa Cox, Newark City Councilmembers Sucy Collazo and Mike Bucci, California Nurses Association, California Professional Firefighters, California Teachers Association, Planned Parenthood Mar Monte, Sierra Club, Tri-Cities Democratic Forum, Asian Pacific American Democratic Caucus of Alameda County, and the California Democratic Party.

I have the proven policy experience and vision to keep fighting for our community's future in the State Assembly. I'd be honored to continue representing you and humbly ask for your vote. Will you join me in building a brighter future for California?

DISTRICT 10

Jim Canova

A New California Dream – reimaging our future together!

Expanding education and career technical education options. Preserving and expanding family friendly affordable housing and increasing home security through home ownership. Fighting climate change. Finding long-term solutions to homelessness and building safer communities.

It's time for a New California Dream! I'm asking for your vote on June 7th so that we can start building that New California Dream together!

Jamal Khan

Call me. Seriously, take a moment and call or text my personal cell: (408) 834-6991. Hesitant? Visit my website first: www.votekhan.com.

I'm the most accessible candidate in this race. No gatekeepers between you and me.

I grew up right here in our district. Local public K-12 schools. Witnessed the dotcom bust: For Lease signs peppered everywhere as layoffs hit loved ones. Attended Berkeley, graduated amidst the financial crisis. Attended Harvard Law School as Occupy Wall Street lit, then fizzled. Worked for the Obama White House as Trump and Bernie drew massive crowds. Wrote five books about pressing topics like the opioid crisis, data privacy, and tech monopolies as COVID hit.

What am I about? Fighting to lift our middle class until it's once again an inspiration for the world.

Here's how: A fair workweek with predictable schedules for employees. Paid family leave to take care of your newborn or sick relative while keeping the lights on. Restrictions on greedy companies outbidding you on a house with all cash, then renting it out, making homeownership hopeless. Suspending the gas tax until pump prices fall below a predetermined threshold. Universal healthcare, and if not, at least a public option. Boosting public safety to keep your family safe. Fiscal discipline, accountability, and transparency. See much more at www.votekhan.com/priorities

Bread and butter stuff. No nonsense about taking Abraham Lincoln's name off a school. My energy will go into fighting ferociously for working families.

I'm easily accessible to voters like you, not lobbyists or special interests. Questions? Here's my personal cell number: (408) 834-6991

Lily Mei

I'm Fremont Mayor Lily Mei, a Democrat, daughter of immigrants, working Mom, former School Board President, City Council Member and Past Mayor Pro Tempore, I got involved in public service for the best reasons: my two kids. That's why I secured millions to improve our schools and am proud to be Fremont's first elected woman, and Asian American Mayor, and the third Big City Asian Woman Mayor in US History.

As a lifetime Girl Scout, PTA parent, and team mom these diverse experiences provided me with passion to not just complain about an issue but enact solutions. Each experience has driven me to craft better legislation and policies.

Coming to Fremont first as a young college graduate with student loans as a renter, to struggling to buy our first house while raising a young family and now bridging to a season as a parent myself to college students with aging parents, I have chosen this district to be my home for over 29 years.

I bring people together across party, philosophy, and race to solve our region's toughest issues. As Mayor in one of California's most diverse Senate districts, I proudly stand for equality, inclusion, and civil rights for all.

I've led efforts to increase affordable housing by record numbers; supported the creation of good-paying, clean-energy jobs, and business innovation; and worked to establish a City shelter for homeless families with mobile hygiene, counseling, and job training services. I've prioritized ensuring every resident access to life-saving vaccines, and as a result Fremont is one of the most highly vaccinated cities in the country.

As State Senator, I'll take my record on housing/job creation, homeless services, and healthcare response to Sacramento. I'll also demand year-round investments in wildfire prevention to protect our families, businesses, and the environment – and continue to lead as an advocate for community-powered public safety and swift investigations of hate crimes and misconduct.

I'm honored to have the endorsement of every Mayor in Senate District 10: Hayward, Milpitas, Newark, San Jose, Santa Clara, Sunnyvale, Union City, along with State and Federal leaders including Congressman Ro Khanna, State Senator Steve Glazer, State Senator Bill Dodd.

From our community-driven support to the broad coalition of leaders, join us in our commitment to People Over Politics! www.lilymei.org

Paul J. Pimentel

Aisha Wahab

My family came to the U.S. from Afghanistan in search of the American Dream. That dream was cut short shortly after I was born, when my father was murdered, leaving me in foster care before I could tie my own shoes.

But I was lucky. I was adopted by a self-employed couple in the Bay Area who taught me the values of hard work, perseverance and pride in their American identity. But, when the Great Recession hit, like so many Bay Area residents, my family faced foreclosure and lost our small business.

It shouldn't take luck to be successful. That's why I have made my community better as a community advocate and Hayward City Councilmember, taking on some of our most challenging problems.

In the State Senate, I'll fight for hardworking families and get Sacramento focused on the basics: a roof overhead, food on the table, a job with benefits, affordable education and healthcare, internet access, clean air. The basics have become unattainable for far too many Californians. I will prioritize our needs and get us moving in the right direction, including

- Addressing our housing crisis. I have created real housing opportunities at all income levels by creating affordable housing and assistance programs. I'll work to permanently reduce homelessness and create down payment assistance, tenant protections, and support for first-time home buyers.

- The opportunity to succeed. I will address inequality by fighting for living wages and stable benefits, including affordable childcare and paid leave.

- Healthier communities. Clean air and water and health care that includes mental health and reproductive care are key to keeping our communities healthy and strong. In Sacramento, I'll continue to be an advocate for climate action. And I'll fight for affordable, accessible health care for every one of us, including standing up for reproductive freedoms.

- Please join the California Democratic Party, Planned Parenthood Advocates Mar Monte, Equality California, State Senators Bob Wieckowski and Josh Becker, and dozens of local leaders in supporting my campaign. I would be honored to have your vote.

ALAMEDA COUNTY SUPERVISOR DISTRICT 2

ALAMEDA COUNTY SUPERVISOR DISTRICT 3

Surlene Grant

I'm Surlene Grant and I'm running for the Alameda County

Board of Supervisors to open doors and connect communities for a stronger Alameda County. I hope to represent San Leandro and San Lorenzo—and you.

Our toughest problems can be solved by building broad coalitions and working together to develop new solutions to persistent problems like homelessness, the housing crisis and our overburdened mental health and medical care systems.

As Vice Mayor of San Leandro, I worked with advocates and a diverse group of stakeholders to pass the city's first ordinance requiring the inclusion of affordable housing in the development of all new residential housing, doing our part to turn the tide on the Bay Area housing crisis. As Chair of the Alameda County Housing Authority, I worked side-by-side with our most vulnerable communities to prevent families from becoming homeless. And, as Founder of the San Leandro African American Business Council, I advocated for small businesses and a sustainable local economy.

If elected, I will prioritize:

- Expanding access to housing of all types, including affordable apartments, single-family homes and the "Missing Middle" — duplexes, triplexes and quadplexes.

- Protecting our environment by prioritizing renewable energy and nature conservation, creating more parks, and developing complete streets for better transit, walking and biking.

- Promoting health and safety for all by establishing more effective mental health services, forming non-police responses to psychiatric and homeless emergencies, and ensuring public safety, transparency and accountability.

I'm proud to be endorsed by civic, environmental and small business leaders, including San Leandro Mayor Pauline Cutter, Oakland Mayor Libby Schaaf, Alameda County Board of Education President Aisha Knowles, San Lorenzo School Board Member Penny Peck, Oro Loma Sanitary District President Rita Duncan, the Environmental Justice League, Black Women Organized for Political Action (BWOPA-PAC) and 19 City Councilmembers and District Presidents.

Your vote for me on June 7 is a vote for access and responsiveness. To learn more about my platform and experience, visit www.surlenegrant.com or send me an email at surlene@surlenegrant.com.

David Kakishiba

I'm running for Alameda County Supervisor because I know we can do much better. Today, thousands of people are sleeping on the streets. Crime and violence are on the rise. And raising a family is tougher than ever. I'll fight to get real results for things that matter:

- Homes for unhoused people living on the streets

- Jobs for formerly incarcerated individuals

- Affordable high-quality childcare for working families

- Family Wellness Centers at 100 schools in our least-resourced neighborhoods

I live in Oakland with my wife, Isabel Toscano, a history teacher at Oakland High School. We raised our two children here and they attended neighborhood public schools. This is our home, and it's time to get our home in order.

Don't believe county government can't impact things that really matter.

It can be done. I've done it.

- For the past 42 years, I have served as Executive Director of the East Bay Asian Youth Center, which provides education, employment, counseling, and family support services to a racially diverse membership of 2,500 young people in Oakland's Chinatown, Eastlake, San Antonio, and Fruitvale neighborhoods.

- I wrote the Oakland's Kids First Initiative, a citizen's ballot measure that provides $20 million annually for services to children and youth — without raising taxes.

- I co-founded the Brooklyn Basis Community Benefits Coalition, which secured the construction of 465 affordable housing units for families, seniors, and the unhoused.

- I organized residents and merchants to shut down and re-purpose International Boulevard's notorious National Lodge Motel from a dangerous place for sexual exploitation and violence to a vibrant hub for small businesses.

- I wrote the Oakland Unified School District's College & Career Readiness for All Act, a parcel tax measure that provides $12 million annually to high schools to make career academies available to every student. Oakland has achieved double-digit increases in its high school graduation rate since the measure's passage.

As your County Supervisor, I will listen to you and I will work hard every single day to make county government work for all of us.

If you have any questions, please e-mail me at kakishiba@gmail.com or call/text me at 510-435-8582.

Rebecca Kaplan

I ask for your vote, so that together, we can build a stronger and healthier future for Alameda County. As your Supervisor, I will expand upon my experience and legislative record to provide better coordinated housing for the homeless, ensure healthy food in all communities, build stronger partnerships for public safety, support local small businesses, transit-oriented development, remove trash and blight, and take action to improve bicycle and pedestrian safety and accessibility. I bring to this important work my track record of successfully building coalitions to advance critical community needs, including launching zero-emission trucks, trains and buses to provide clean air and better transportation, quality jobs, expanding affordable housing and helping the homeless to get off the streets, providing large-scale and community vaccination, fire prevention, innovative civilian crisis responders, and protecting public health. My experience includes serving as Oakland Vice Mayor and At-Large Councilmember, AC Transit Director, State legislative aide, Bay Area Air Quality Board member, civil rights lawyer, and Hebrew bible teacher. My education includes a Bachelor's of Science from MIT, Masters in Urban and Environmental Policy, and J.D. from Stanford Law School. I respectfully ask for your vote. Vote by mail, vote early.

Lena Tam

I am a lifelong resident of District 3. Committed to helping make Alameda County healthier, safer, and more resilient, I have focused my career on serving our residents. As the Vice-Mayor of the City of Alameda, I secured housing for low-income seniors. As the elected President of the City of Alameda Health Care District, I succeeded in keeping Alameda Hospital open with emergency services. I approved

2,400 new homes as Chair of the Alameda County Planning Commission while preserving open space in unincorporated areas. As the Water Resources Planning Manager at East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD), I develop the East Bay's climate resilience and emergency action plans.

As your Supervisor, I will work to build more affordable housing and strengthen programs that help our unhoused neighbors get back on their feet. I will work to protect our communities from the effects of climate change and sea-level rise. I will support healthcare services, including our community clinics, increase funding for mental health services, and reproductive health care protection for all women and families. At a time when many, especially in the Asian-American community, are afraid to walk in the streets, I will provide the resources needed to keep us safe.

As an engineer, I am focused on practical solutions for structural problems; as a department manager, I know how to build a team of engineers to implement those solutions while being flexible enough to pivot when challenges arise.

My work as an elected representative and as an active volunteer and board member in many civic organizations informs me as to how to work collaboratively to create a consensus whenever possible.

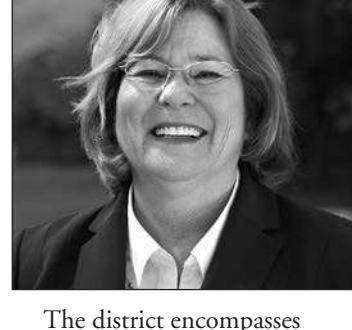

As a daughter of immigrants, I understand what it feels like to not be seen and fully recognized as an equal. This has strengthened my resolve to fight for what I believe is right and to lift all others around me.

I am the best choice for Alameda County Supervisor.

ALAMEDA COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION 7TH TRUSTEE AREA

Cheryl Cook-Kallio

I am excited to announce my candidacy for the Alameda County School Board District 7.

The district encompasses Sunol, Pleasanton, Livermore, Dublin and unincorporated eastern Alameda County. There are seven members of the County Board of Education which is the oversight entity for the entire county dealing with juvenile justice schools, charter applications, and appeals regarding intra-district transfers and disciplinary actions.

I am a 40-year veteran Fremont public school teacher, former Pleasanton Councilmember, and a civic education activist. I hold an M.A. in History emphasizing the United States Constitution. I have lived and worked my entire life in this part of Alameda County teaching in the community where I grew up.

I have four children who attended schools in Sunol, Livermore and Pleasanton. I was a member of the State K-12 Civic Education Task Force and iCivics Teacher Advisory Boards and serve on the Center for Civic Education National Board which oversees the We the People and Project Citizen programs. In these capacities and others, I have worked for children and teachers supporting quality programs and legislative outcomes across the nation and here in our local community. I was honored to be recognized nationally with the American Civic Education Teacher Award.

My focus as a board member will be to promote and encourage legislative agendas that support teachers and students in our county. My skills combined with local and state-level experience make me uniquely qualified to increase support from the county office to those we serve to ensure equity for all. Public service is my calling. I humbly ask you to join the California Teachers Association, Congressmembers Eric Swalwell and Ro Khanna, State Superintendent of Schools Tony Thurmond, and dozens of others and cast your vote for Cheryl Cook-Kallio for Alameda County School Board. SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE, OFFICE 1

Tamiza Hockenhull

To the voters of Alameda County, my name is Tamiza Hockenhull and I am running for the position of Judge of the Alameda County Superior Court. I am asking for your vote because I have the necessary experience to serve in this position. I currently serve as a Commissioner with the Alameda County Superior Court and I've served in this capacity for more than six years. In my role as a Commissioner, I've presided over Civil Harassment and Elder Abuse Restraining Orders, Domestic Violence Restraining Orders, Child Support, General Civil Law and Motion hearings, Unlawful Detainer bench trial, Small Claims and Traffic cases.

Prior to serving as a Commissioner, I served this great state as an Administrative Law Judge with the California Board of Parole Hearings. Before this, I volunteered as a Judge Pro Tem and served as a State Commissioner for the Fair Employment and Housing Commission. I graduated from U.C. Berkeley and Golden Gate University School of Law, and I have been licensed to practice law since 1999. I've faithfully served in the field of law for twenty-two years, first as an attorney and more recently as a judicial officer. You can learn more about me, including my judicial resume, if you visit my campaign website at <http://hockenhullforjudge.com>.

experiences and I look forward to continuing my service to the people of Alameda County and I would appreciate your vote.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE, OFFICE 12

Pelayo A. Llamas

As an Alameda County Superior Court Commissioner

since 2019, I have already been performing judicial work presiding over criminal and civil trials and other court hearings every day. These infractions, small claims, domestic violence, civil harassment restraining orders, and child support orders. Prior to my appointment, I gained more than 26 years of experience as an attorney in private practice and public law with the Oakland City Attorney's Office. I served as the past Vice-President and President-elect of the Alameda County Bar Association and have served in leadership of many other attorney/judge organizations over the years.

A 30-year resident of Alameda County and have raised two children here. I obtained my BA from UC Berkeley and my Law Degree from Santa Clara University. I care about and give back to my community as shown through my decades of volunteer work in free legal clinics and mentoring high school students.

I am running for judge to enhance our court's ability to serve our diverse community with integrity and fairness. As your public servant for over 20 years, I have a demonstrated commitment to unbiased lawyering and adjudication. It is my mission to keep building and maintaining the people's trust in our legal system by applying consistent and impartial standards to cases before me. My goal is to ensure justice and preserve the rule of law. I am the first member of my family born in America (as the son of immigrants from Japan and the Philippines). I worked and paid my way through college and law school and respect those who are working daily to make ends meet.

My endorsements include: California Attorney General Rob Bonta, Dublin Councilmember Shawn Kumagai, San Leandro Councilmembers Corina Lopez, Pete Ballew, County Assessor Phong La, Union City Councilmember Pat Gacoscos and Jim Navarro (former), Union City Councilmembers Raj Salwan and Teresa Keng, and Sue Chang (former), the Filipino Bar Association of Northern California, over 45 current and retired Judges and Commissioners, the Alameda County Democratic Party, and the Asian Pacific American Democratic Caucus of Alameda County.

ALAMEDA SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Alysse Castro

I am a lifelong educator who has proven we can — and must — do better for our kids. For 25 years I have led schools that change lives for students — especially kids furthest from opportunity – as a teacher, a principal, and now the Director of County Schools. I taught School Finance at UC Berkeley's Principal Leadership Institute and I am known for creating school environments that attract, develop, and inspire educators to break free from bureaucracy to spend more time with kids.

As County Superintendent I will: operate schools that change lives for kids in juvenile hall, foster care & shelters; approve district budgets that support all students including English learners, low-income youth, and kids with special needs; recruit teachers and school staff from our communities for our communities to improve teacher diversity, retention, and longevity in the profession; prioritize safe learning environments free from COVID, school violence, bullying and police abuse; create partnerships between schools and community agencies for health care and family support services; and enhance apprenticeship and career technical education opportunities so all students graduate ready for life after high school.

I was recently recognized as an Alameda Local Hero for my work as President of Alameda Family Services – a community agency that serves as a model for how to embed systems of family support in public schools and will ensure that all students across Alameda County have counseling and mental health services to remove barriers to learning.

I am proud to have the endorsement of the California Teachers Association (CTA), including Castro Valley, Fremont, Hayward, Newark, New Haven, and San Leandro Teachers Associations. I am also supported by the California School Employees Association (CSEA), the Alameda Labor Council, and elected officials including Supervisor Richard Valle, San Leandro Vice Mayor Victor Aguilar, Jr and San Leandro School Board President James Aguilar, Hayward City Council Member Sara Lamnin, New Haven School Board President Melissa Suen-Mallory, former Fremont City Council member Vinnie Bacon, former Union City Mayor Mark Green, former County Superintendent Sheila Jordan, and more. Student learning is core to my policy decisions as Superintendent. Students must have the educational opportunities and support services needed to thrive academically, socially and emotionally.

The pandemic disrupted learning and left students, parents and teachers frustrated. I'm proud of my work to keep students and teachers in classrooms safely – the best place for kids to learn. I care deeply about continuing to lead our schools through the complex challenges caused by COVID-19.

This is a critical time in public education. I have innovative solutions to issues of equity and lack of resources many students experience.

My priorities:

Knowledge: increase work-based learning and career technical education, STEAM learning and internship opportunities, and provide training and professional development to teachers.

Equity: integrate services, collaborate with community partners, empower parents and students to have a voice in their educational programs, and recruit diverse teachers.

Excellence: ensure school districts are fiscally sound.

Change is difficult, buy necessary to improve student learning. I came to this office as an educator, not a politician, and have been providing accountability and innovation since day one.

I am supported by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Tony Thurmond, and many local educators and elected officials. I would be honored to have your vote.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Pamela Price

The criminal justice system in Alameda County is broken.

Alameda County deserves a compassionate justice system which is accountable, fair, transparent and increases public safety. I am the woman for the job.

As a civil rights attorney, I will bring my 40+ years of legal knowledge, skills and experience to successfully reform the administration of justice in Alameda County. I will create an effective, ethical and transparent DA's office, restore public trust and promote real public safety. Accountability is key. I am the only candidate with 30 years experience successfully holding corporations, public institutions, elected officials, and law enforcement accountable for illegal activities.

My plans for criminal justice reform will build a healthier Alameda County for all by reducing mass incarceration, ending the over-criminalization of youth and those struggling with mental illness and addictions. Our success-driven plans will also tackle gun violence and root out the gender, income and racial disparities in our prosecutions.

As a graduate of Yale College and UC Berkeley Law School, and a survivor of the juvenile justice and foster care systems, I will use the same tenacity, courage and fighting spirit that drove me to success to trail-blaze justice for everyday people. I built a successful law firm, managed it for 30 years, coordinated teams of lawyers and successfully argued a landmark racial harassment case before the United States Supreme Court.

I have represented victims of retaliation, wrongful termination, sexual assault, gun violence, and sex, age, religion, disability and race-based discrimination. My clients included nurses, doctors, electricians, students, tradeswomen, lawyers, postal workers, police and correctional officers from all walks of life.

That is why I am endorsed by the California Nurses Association, United Food & Commercial Workers, National Union of Healthcare Workers, Planned Parenthood Advocates Mar Monte, the Asian Pacific American Labor Alliance, and Families Advocating for the Seriously Mentally Ill.

As a proven prosecutor, veteran, public school teacher and policy leader, I have what it takes to keep families and communities safe, build trust in the District Attorney's Office and restore fairness to the criminal justice system.

Raised by a single mother, my brother and I learned the values of service, excellence and fairness. I spent 13 years as a prosecutor handling hate crimes, domestic violence, and other serious cases while collaborating with alternative courts and diversion programs. I also managed the District Attorney's Neighborhood D.A. Program and engaged in community outreach.

I am a proud Air Force veteran. I joined after the bombing of the Boston Marathon. The Air Force Rescue motto is "These Things We Do That Others May Live." I will bring this same level of duty and commitment to the District Attorney's Office.

I am a teacher because I believe supporting people at the front end means less victims and defendants on the back end. I teach criminal law at Oakland Technical High School and Merritt College. I also serve as Scholarship Chair for the Peralta Colleges Foundation Board of Directors. As District Attorney, I will partner with school districts across Alameda County to increase the high school graduation rate.

As a policy leader in Oakland, I drafted legislation banning chokeholds and carotid restraints by police, and recently worked with Oakland's leaders to ban ghost guns and ghost gun kits. It is critical to bring these and other safety policies to all of Alameda County.

As District Attorney, I will stem the rise of violent crime, expand access to alternative courts, address the root causes of crime, hold law enforcement accountable, fight racism and bias, eliminate the death penalty, protect immigrants' rights, #StopAsianHate, expand victims' rights, and protect the rights of women including reproductive freedoms.

I am endorsed by Alameda County Supervisor Keith Carson, Assemblymember Mia Bonta, Chabot-Las Positas Community College District Trustee Harris Mojadedi, Chair of the California Board of Equalization Malia Cohen and many more. Please join your neighbors around Alameda County and vote for Seth Steward for District Attorney.

Safety is a fundamental civil right and for 30 years I've worked to bring safety and justice to every community.

My experience as the Chief Assistant District Attorney for Alameda County, the first African American in that job, shows me we must fight crime from every direction.

We start with prevention by addressing the root causes of crime, investing in job training, mental health services and addiction treatment.

We stand up for the vulnerable, starting with kids, seniors, women and families and that is exactly what I have done every day – fight for those who need a champion.

I know that we can make progress on safety – quickly – by focusing on repeat and violent offenders. Just 2,000 offenders commit the majority of crimes in Alameda County. I will start by focusing on these offenders.

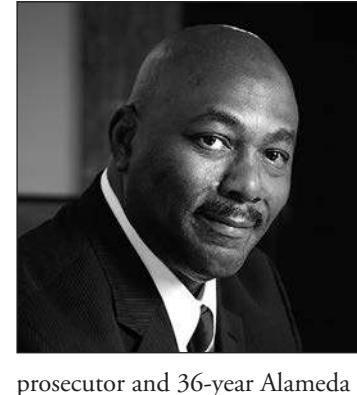

As a prosecutor, I work every day to keep our community safe. I support putting more well-trained officers on the streets who can build trust with the communities they serve. I've balanced both safety and justice, prosecuting some of California's most complex criminal cases, including homicide, gang and sexual assault cases. And, I've prosecuted bad cops, including the largest police corruption case in Bay Area history, the Oakland Rider's case. I know this is not a choice between safety and justice – we can have both.

I'm supported by prominent civil rights leaders like John Burris, Lonita Baker and Oakland NAACP President George Holland, Congressman Eric Swalwell, Fremont Council Members Teresa Cox and Raj Salwan, the Alameda County District Attorney's Association and Alameda County Association of Police Chiefs.

Please join us at www.TerryWileyforDA.com.

Jimmie Wilson

Jimmie Wilson is a leading 17-year Alameda County prosecutor and 36-year Alameda County resident who knows what it takes to make our streets safe and our criminal justice system fair. That's why Alameda County's frontline law enforcement community endorses Jimmie Wilson for Alameda County DA!

Jimmie has tackled many of our County's toughest homicide, gang, and sexual assault cases; investigated officer-involved shootings; negotiated ceasefires between rival gangs; and supported crime victims. Through his role on the Executive Board of the NAACP Hayward-South Alameda County, Jimmie leads a countywide effort to introduce Community Policing reforms in partnership with local police jurisdictions.

Growing up in a high-crime neighborhood, Jimmie understands how crime and violence harm communities.

Before becoming an attorney, he worked as a Plumber for 16 years while raising his children and attending Laney College at night. At 40 years old, Jimmie earned a scholarship to UC Berkeley and went on to attend UC Hastings law school.

As your DA, Jimmie will: Make Alameda County safer for everyone by holding violent and repeat offenders accountable, vigorously prosecuting hate crimes, and partnering with law enforcement to tackle gun and gang crime.

Close the revolving door of the criminal justice system by partnering with our communities at the neighborhood level to address the root causes of crime, and expand access to effective prevention and rehabilitation programs.

Build trust in a reformed DA's office that is always transparent, and accountable to the public.

Talk less and listen more to our communities' needs and their ideas for change, realizing that all communities are not alike and that what works for one may not work for another.

SHERIFF/CORONER

Greg Ahern

As Sheriff, I've focused on 4 guiding principles of Prevention,

Enforcement, Programs, and Service in order to keep our community safe.

Prevention is a priority in order to stop people from turning to crime by providing opportunities. I've provided educational, recreational, and employment to at-risk youth and people leaving jail. I am most proud of the successful programs I created to build strong, positive relationships between officers and community members. I created the Youth and Family Services Bureau to improve quality of life issues and address violent crimes committed by the youth in our area. Our efforts to stop the cycle of recidivism has been successful as we have reduced violent crime in our jurisdiction. I support re-entry programs that help with basic life skills, housing, and employment. To reduce incarceration and recidivism, I am a strong proponent of effective re-entry programs, including Operation My Home Town, Dig Deep Farms, Deputy Sheriff's Activities League, and Maximizing Mothers to Succeed which includes re-entry housing opportunities.

The arrest of violent criminals is important. I created units to reduce street crimes and gangs. I formed a cold case investigative unit to solve homicides so families have closure. I required all rape kits tested so predators don't escape justice. I continue to apprehend the most violent criminals who prey on women, children, seniors, and our most vulnerable people.

I have a proven record of success and increased de-escalation tools and training. I've effectively addressed homelessness, addiction, poverty, and mental health. I take my job and your safety seriously.

I'm endorsed by former Governor Jerry Brown and a diverse group of community leaders and organizations including NAACP Hayward South Alameda County President Freddie M. Davis, Alameda County Supervisor Nate Miley, District Attorney Nancy O'Malley, Dublin Mayor Melissa Hernandez, Danville Mayor Newell Arnerich, Pleasanton Mayor Karla Brown, Union City Mayor Carol Dutra-Vernaci, former President Pro Tempore of the California State Senate Don Perata, the Deputy Sheriffs' Association of Alameda County, the Alameda County Chiefs of Police and Sheriffs' Association, and the San Francisco Deputy Sheriffs' Association.

Yessenia Sanchez

I am a public servant running to make major reforms in the Alameda County Sheriff's Office. I began my career as a 19-year-old civilian and have risen through the ranks. I am the highest-ranking woman in the Agency, overseeing more than 600 staff members and an annual budget of roughly $300 million. I've used de-escalation techniques to keep our streets safe and worked as an investigator to bring criminals to justice.

In 2020, I was promoted to Division Commander and assigned to Santa Rita Jail, which has come under federal oversight for its historic poor treatment of incarcerated people, inmate deaths, and low accountability. As the next Sheriff, I will focus on critically needed reforms in several key areas: Rehabilitation of and Job Training for the Jail Population. Incarcerated people deserve humane treatment, and support to help prevent recidivism and reduce crime. As Sheriff, I will ensure Santa Rita Jail sets people up to succeed and contribute positively in the community upon reentry.

Racial Justice and Accountability. The Alameda County Sheriff's Office led the Bay Area in wrongful death and excessive force payouts from 2015-2020. That's a cultural problem that starts at the top. As a Latina, I know law enforcement sometimes behaves differently in BIPOC communities compared to affluent ones. I will work with outside accountability experts to analyze disparities in how Sheriff's Deputies interact with different groups and institute policy changes to rectify shortcomings.

Community Engagement. I will pursue active working relationships with the community, elected officials, and law enforcement agencies throughout the county to focus on crime prevention and safety. This includes appropriate responses to mental health incidents, crisis intervention training, and a focus on de-escalation. I will work to repair and build trust with marginalized communities, including immigrant and undocumented communities, to ensure they are provided with equitable services regardless of citizenship status.

The reality is the Sheriff's approach to law enforcement needs to change. We need more community input and engagement, and transparency and accountability need to be priorities.

Join me in this historical event. Vote for Yesenia Sanchez, Alameda County's first Latina Sheriff.

Joann Walker

Officer Walker is a 26-year law enforcement veteran, educator, and resident of Alameda County for more than 40 years. She is an award-winning volunteer Suicide Prevention Crisis Counselor and a 2016 recipient of the U.S. Attorney General's Award for Distinguished Service in Community Policing.

Officer Walker's law enforcement career with the SFPD includes working as a Terrorism Liaison Officer, Community Relations Unit Liaison, Station Keeper, Field Training Officer, Peer Support Counselor, Academy Instructor, CIT (crisis intervention trained officer), member of the Captain's Problem-Solving Team, and Healthy Streets Operation Center Liaison to address concerns regarding our unhoused population. She has developed and conducted training for law enforcement professionals in subjects such as Hate Crimes, Tactical Communication, and Crisis Support/Suicide Prevention.

Officer Walker's long experience with crisis support services provides a unique perspective on what residents expect from the Sheriff's Department.

A great deal of work is needed to reduce crime while also building trust effectively within the Alameda County Sheriff's Department and with communities served. Officer Walker's 26-year career has given her keen insight regarding strategies that work versus strategies that simply look good on paper.

The basis of Officer Walker's campaign platform is A.R.C. = Accountability, R = Reform of the Criminal Justice System as it relates to ACSO; and C = Community Oriented Policing needed to develop legitimacy and trust within ACSO as well as with communities served. With introspection, hard work, and cooperation, together, we can make the needed changes in the Alameda County Sheriff's Department.

Officer Walker has also been an Adjunct Professor at California State University, East Bay for 27+ years.

TREASURER/TAX COLLECTOR

Henry 'Hank' Levy

Santa Clara Candidates

ASSESSOR

Larry Stone

Andrew Crockett

I am Andrew Crockett CPA, Financial Analyst, and Appraiser running to serve as Santa Clara County's next Assessor.

My platform is to improve the Assessor's Office by enhancing its role as a Public Service to our community:

- Taking new actions to address the housing crisis.
- Bringing my technical competence to bear on the issue.
- Demonstrating honesty through data transparency.

To clarify these proposals, I will define what an Assessor does: maintains the records of all items subject to property taxes, then determines and records the values connected with these items following California's laws. These values, known as assessments, are turned over to the Tax Collector's office to be used in calculating property tax on these items.

In performing these duties, the office generates an enormous amount of property data. In Santa Clara County, this includes data on the 484,000 property parcels on which every home and business sits. Most US Counties provide this data for little or no cost to nonprofits and government agencies working to solve the housing crisis. Unfortunately, the incumbent Assessor charges a whopping $47,195.00 for this data - well over 100x more than other counties charge (if they charge anything at all). I promise to waive this fee for all nonprofits and government agencies, as well as deal with the root problem that caused the exorbitant fee: the high costs of operating the obsolete 1970's era COBOL-coded Assessor database. This database was old when the incumbent first took office 28 years ago, and will now cost $50 million to upgrade to modern standards. An upgrade I promise to complete while we still have time.

Additionally, I will modernize the Assessor's Office community outreach, communicating to the public about the services and functions of the Assessor's Office in ways that work with the language and cultural diversity of Santa Clara County. My goal is to empower our residents in navigating the property ownership bureaucracy, fulfilling this office's logical role as a center of Public Service.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Daniel Chung

It is time for change. I am a career prosecutor who is committed to prosecuting crime. I will fight for public safety, victims' rights, and systemic changes. I will enforce laws and pursue balanced reforms.

I grew up in a single-parent immigrant family in Milpitas. Financial aid and teaching jobs enabled me to attend Harvard and Columbia. My father served in the military and law enforcement and inspired me to pursue public service. I prosecuted gun crimes in New York and violent crimes in Silicon Valley. In 2020, I received the Webb Award for my trial advocacy in domestic violence cases.

As DA, I will prioritize prosecuting repeat, serious, and violent offenders. The revolving door for criminals must stop. Violent and property crimes must be taken seriously. I will reform charging and prosecution practices to treat victims and defendants with dignity and fairness. I will strengthen community outreach and partnerships with law enforcement and mental health services.

I care about people and their struggles. As a Christian, I believe in redemption and second chances. However, justice also requires accountability. I am committed to restoring justice and uplifting people in my home community. (chungforchange.com)

Sajid Khan

I'm running for Santa Clara County District Attorney to heal systemic racism, address root causes of crime, fight mass incarceration, and build a justice system that protects the safety and dignity of all people.

As a public defender in San Jose for nearly fourteen years, I believe Black Lives Matter and have fought for the civil rights and humanity of our most vulnerable community members. I've stood up in our courthouses, jails, and neighborhoods and witnessed the current system perpetuate mass incarceration, inflict harm on marginalized communities, and fail to keep us safe.

As District Attorney, I will prevent violent and property crimes by investing in mental health services and alternatives to jails and prisons, hold police accountable when they break the law, break the school to prison pipeline, and bring healing to survivors of crime and provide trauma-informed care.

Santa Clara County is my home. My immigrant parents chose this community to raise me and my siblings. I grew up in Milpitas and San Jose, attended San Jose High School, and now raise my two kids here.

When elected, I will be the first person of color to serve as Santa Clara County District Attorney in the 171-year history of the office. VoteSajid.com

SHERIFF

Anh T. Colton

Sean Allen

Sean Allen is a 32-year veteran of the Santa Clara County Sheriff's office. He has worked in a number of capacities with the most recent being within the jail.

During his entire career, he has never hesitated to speak out about inequities, discrimination or misconduct of any kind. As a union member, he has worked tirelessly for those unjustly treated. As sheriff he will not tolerate racist, sexist, or homophobic speech or actions in any context.

As sheriff, there will be a zero-tolerance policy for corruption which includes preferential treatment of any kind. Sean welcomes a Civilian Review Board with real power. They would have subpoena power, the ability to investigate any and all such allegations for clear and fair resolutions.

To create a clean slate in the spirit of no cronyism, Sean will implement a nationwide search for the best qualified applicants to fill positions in top management.

Sean believes that Smart Reform which treats all people fairly, inside and outside the department, is key to the kind of transformative change that we need now. To that end, he will invite collaborations, not just other police agencies, but other County, State and local agencies that provide services to those in need.

He will make mental health a priority of these collaborations, knowing that incarceration is not always the answer, especially when homelessness, substance abuse or mental illness is present.

Such an approach should not only be of societal benefit, by treating problems as health problems where appropriate, but is geared toward safeguarding both the public safety and the budget by cutting recidivism and freeing jail beds.

Just as importantly, Sean will ensure that deputies are properly trained in de-escalation tactics so that reaching for a gun is always a last resort.

Sean welcomes public oversight and will hold public listening sessions to get your suggestions and comments and to hear any problems you or your loved ones have had with deputies or other personnel.

Sean Allen stands for accountability, reform and transparency in all facets of his mission to be sheriff.

Christine Nagaye

My name is Christine Nagaye and I'm running for Santa Clara

County Sheriff. I've always felt a call to public service. I've served my community for 20 years as a Santa Clara County sheriff. I served my country for five years active duty in the US Army.

I'm a fighter and can take the bumps and bruises that come with shaking up an organization and making changes. I'm a mom and a common sense progressive. I will bring back honesty, integrity, and transparency to an office desperately in need of fresh ideas.

In the US Army, I was trained in the importance of gathering diverse groups of people, leading with integrity, and leading by example. I have carried this mindset throughout my life. As a supervising sergeant, I oversee between 60-75 deputies on a daily basis. I'm the only candidate who is currently working on the line. My opponents are too far removed from the issues to effectively solve them.

My first priority will be an independent review of our jails. We need a civilian watchdog to audit law enforcement practices. Our jails need to be about more than housing people for a period of time and then sending them back to the same situation. We need social workers and counseling available to inmates, as well as education and job placement opportunities. We need to establish and fund a program that links law enforcement and social and medical services.

While I stress the need for reform, I believe anyone who has committed a crime must be held accountable. I will promote new ideas, while keeping communities safe from crime.

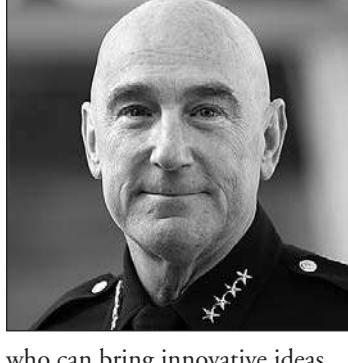

I will rebuild trust with minority communities and establish a program that links law enforcement and social services.

As a law enforcement professional, and a veteran, I will restore faith in law enforcement. It would be my privilege to serve as sheriff. Nagayeforsheriff.com

Kevin Jensen

Bob Jonsen

The Santa Clara County Sheriff's Office needs a leader who can bring innovative ideas, change the culture, implement reform, and restore trust and integrity in the organization. I have a unique paradigm on policing based on my diverse background. I am the only candidate with executive experience in both a sheriff's organization and municipal police department. My 36 years in the profession includes valuable experience from three agencies – 27 years with the largest sheriff's department in the world (Los Angeles), Chief of Police for Menlo Park Police Department, and the past four-plus years as Chief of Police in the progressive city of Palo Alto.

I have been a law enforcement executive actively engaged in the conversations around accountability, transparency, and police reform. We have made tremendous strides in re-imagining public safety over the past two years, but there is much more work to do and I have the experience to continue moving us forward.

As the Chief of Police for the City of Palo Alto, we launched a Psychiatric Emergency Response Team (PERT) in 2021 (the first municipality in the county), where a police officer is paired up with a licensed mental health clinician from the Santa Clara County Behavioral Health Services Department. The team's primary objective is to provide rapid intervention to a person experiencing a mental health crisis by de-escalating the situation and stabilizing it in the least restrictive way possible. We need to expand these types of teams to address homelessness and mental health issues in our communities before they become part of the justice system.

Lastly, I have led crime fighting initiatives in Los Angeles and Menlo Park, where we successfully reduced multiple categories of crime by engaging with the community, our law enforcement partners, and local businesses. My collaborative approach to policing led to these agencies receiving state and national recognition, to include the James Q Wilson Award for Community Policing, the Helen Putnam Award for Excellence in Public Safety, and the prestigious International Chiefs of Police Award for Community Policing.

South Bay Chinese Service Club Scholarship Awards Program

SUBMITTED BY JANE LIN, SBCSC SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE CHAIRPERSON

On Wednesday, April 27, 2022, South Bay Chinese Service Club (SBCSC) awarded $41,000 in scholarships to 22 exceptional high school seniors of Chinese descent at our Scholarship Awards Banquet at Grand Golden Bay Seafood in Union City, after two years of virtual Zoom celebrations.

This year is the program's 52nd anniversary, and over the years, we have awarded over $450,000 to hundreds of Tri-City Area high school students. South Bay Chinese Club (SBCC) President Dr. Clifton M. Der Bing opened the banquet by commending the graduates for their perseverance, and thanking parents and scholarship donors for their involvement. He also recognized local dignitaries such as Fremont Mayor Lily Mei, Fremont City Councilmember Teresa Keng, Fremont Police Chief Sean Washington, Ohlone College President Dr. Eric Bishop, Ohlone College Trustee Sue Chan, and Cupertino Union School Board Trustee Sylvia Leong.

Scholarship Committee Chairperson Jane Lin praised the students for their academic achievements and community service, and encouraged them to "go out and conquer the world," then to come back and continue our legacy. Past President and Scholarship Committee member Joe Woo gave a brief history of the South Bay Chinese Club and Scholarship Program. Keynote Speaker Shelly Gin, development manager at Chinese for Affirmative Action, a San Francisco-based non-profit, spoke about "navigating and accepting" one's cultural identity and heritage, and finding the passion to fight for beliefs.

Many major sponsors were on hand to present awards, including the families of Gerry Low-Sabado and Frances Ngan. In addition to monetary awards, recipients also received a plaque and Certificates of Commendation and Special Recognition from U. S. Congressman Ro Khanna, State Senator Bob Wieckowski, State Assemblymembers Alex Lee and Bill Quirk, Alameda County Supervisors David Haubert and Richard Valle, Alameda County Assessor Phong La, and Fremont City Mayor Lily Mei.

The 22 scholarship winners this year represented four high schools in Fremont and one in Union City. The average unweighted GPA was 3.9, with an amazing 14,068 community service hours amassed. In this group, there were National Merit Finalists, numerous AP Scholars with Distinction and Honors, seven students with a perfect unweighted 4.0 GPA, Eagle Scout and Girl Scout Gold Awards, Presidential Service Awards (Gold), Robotics Awards, Scholar Athlete Awards, leaders in student government positions, a published author of math books for teens, a three-time national

Chinese calligraphy winner, and a US Table Tennis National Team member. Scholarship recipients were:

New Haven Schools Foundation Presents 'Stars on Stage'

SUBMITTED BY MICHAEL RITCHIE

New Haven Schools Foundation (NHSF) announces a new event, "Stars on Stage" – an extravaganza of talent including comedians, rock bands and musical performances. You'll also hear a student virtuoso violinist, teacher pianist, and even a school board member sing opera! The event will take place Saturday, June 4 at James Logan High School Performing Arts Center. The benefit concert is a fundraiser to support NHSF's college scholarship and classroom grant programs.

Kabir Singh, America's Got Talent semi-finalist and Comedy Central star, will headline the show as well as emcee the festivities. Singh regularly sells out stand-up comedy venues throughout the country, and brought the house down at our virtual event in 2021.

Up and coming student performers from Eternity Band will get the crowd revved up in two opening numbers. Jukebox Heroes, Grog's World, Vince Charming—all popular performers for festivals, local clubs, weddings, and corporate events—will perform musical sets. James Logan graduate and stand-up comedian club performer, Emma Brown, will entertain as well. To round-out an evening of fantastic music, you'll hear professional classical musicians like violin virtuoso Audrey Dao and opera singer Mel Shuen-Mallory, with pianist Jennifer Raver.

Two ticket options are available. VIP tickets include preferred seating, exclusive access to a meet & greet pre-event reception with the performers, including hors d'oeuvres, and complimentary beverages. VIP tickets are $75 and include a commemorative lanyard. Regular reserved seating tickets are $45 in advance. Proceeds from the event will benefit innovative classroom programs and college scholarships. Purchase tickets at starsonstage.net.

NHSF appreciates the support of event sponsors Fremont Bank, Washington Hospital Township Medical Foundation, New Haven Unified School District, and Kaiser Permanente. To become a sponsor, call (510) 909-9263. www.NHSFoundation.org

Cargo ships harness wind power to slash carbon footprint

EARTHTALK

By JULIANA SCHIFFERES

Dear EarthTalk: Since when did cargo ships start using wind power (again)? Does this save us from a lot of carbon emissions?

-- Bill H. Elizabeth, New Jersey

To many, sailboats invoke either the 18th century "Age of Sail" or preppy regattas. But some environmentalists and engineers are looking past these connotations and rewiring the art of sailing to suit modern technology.

In fact, the 21st century Age of Sail is already in its infancy, due to concerns about fossil fuel shortages that are used in exorbitant amounts to power enormous cargo ships.

This rewiring of sailing matters because of the immense emissions that cargo ships produce. Because they consume fossil fuels, much of our supply chain is riddled with emissions problems. In fact, marine emissions contribute to ocean acidification and greenhouse gas buildups in the atmosphere, and even an alarming feedback loop between the two. This may influence, among other things, coral reef die-offs. Cargo ships that use sails could partially or even completely eliminate the environmental impacts of diesel usage.

Very practical examples abound. Wine companies like Grain de Sail are not just paying lip service to sustainability or otherwise "greenwashing" their products. They are making sure their products truly reject fossil fuel usage by using canvas sails on a boat similar to 19th century schooners. Its ship uses 100% wind energy to propel itself across the ocean.

OceanBird, manufactured by Wallenius, is another innovation. OceanBird is a cargo ship that can reach speeds similar to normal cargo ships using high tech modifications of sails that are closer to helicopters or airplane wings than canvas sails. They use changing air currents and automated shifts in the positioning of the "wings" to maximize speed of transport. While this may sound like science fiction, OceanBird's experimental prototype will soon be on the market.

Grassroots efforts to support wind-powered cargo ships are still in their infancy, but you can "vote with your wallet" to support companies like Grain de Sail that use cargo sailboats to propel their goods across the water, if you can afford luxuries like their wines.

If not, you can do your part to avoid the shipping industry by shopping at your local thrift store or farmer's market for local or secondhand goods.

Wind-propelled technologies are not only more picturesque than diesel-based cargo ships belching out emissions, dirtying the air and creating noise pollution. They have an opportunity to revolutionize the shipping industry and break our addiction to fossil fuels. To paraphrase Jimmy Dean, "[We] can't change the direction of the wind, but [we] can adjust [our] sails to always reach [our] destination." And when the end destination is a world free from fossil fuels, the journey is worth it.

A few pioneering companies -- like Wallenius with its OceanBird concept -- are harnessing the power of the wind to reduce the carbon footprints of their cargo shipping operations.

Ask Rusty – Will Paying the IRS Quarterly Increase My Social Security?

SOCIAL SECURITY MATTERS

BY RUSSELL GLOOR, NATIONAL SOCIAL SECURITY ADVISOR, AMAC FOUNDATION

Dear Rusty: I waited to sign up for Social Security until I turned 70 last month so I would qualify for the maximum benefit. I have been the pastor of a small church for the last 15 years and they didn't take out deductions. I paid in quarterly at the advice of my accountant so I would have an amount built up when the time came for me to sign up for Social Security. I received my first SS payment in March for $1,757 after Medicare was deducted. I have been told that once you turned 70 you get the maximum SS benefit, but my accountant thought that I can still pay in quarterly to boost that $1,757. I don't want to pay in anymore if it's not going to increase my amount (other than cost of living increases), so what do I tell my accountant? He's waiting to hear from me before he completes my income tax return.

Signed: Inquisitive Pastor

Dear Inquisitive: By "pay in quarterly" I assume you mean that your earnings from the church are reported on IRS form 1099 and that you pay quarterly estimated income taxes to the IRS to avoid a penalty when you file your annual taxes. The primary reason to pay quarterly estimated taxes is to avoid an IRS penalty - paying your taxes quarterly doesn't matter to Social Security because they will use your annual income (regardless of when you pay the IRS) to see if your benefit should be increased. And whether your current income from the church will increase your Social Security benefit depends on your lifetime earnings history of paying into the Social Security program.

The Social Security benefit you're now receiving is based on your lifetime earnings history, specifically the 35 years over your lifetime in which you had the highest earnings (adjusted for inflation). Social Security always uses a 35-year window to compute your benefit amount, choosing the highest earning years from among all your earning years. If you have fewer than a full 35 years of earnings, they will add enough "zero" years to make it 35 to compute your benefit. What that means is that if you have fewer than 35 years of SS-covered earnings, your earnings now from the church will eliminate one of those "zero" earning years, which would result in a small increase to your Social Security benefit. However, if you already have at least 35 years of SS-covered earnings, then your current earnings will only increase your SS benefit if your recent earnings are more than any of those in the 35 inflation-adjusted years used to compute your age 70 benefit. Social Security will make that determination whether you pay quarterly estimated income taxes to the IRS or not, and they will automatically increase your monthly benefit if your current annual earnings from the church call for it.

How you pay the IRS won't factor into Social Security's determination, but not paying estimated taxes quarterly may affect your total income tax obligation for the tax year, which is what your accountant should be able to tell you. And if your tax return is filed as a self-employed taxpayer, you'll need to pay into Social Security via self-employment taxes, whether you pay the IRS quarterly or not.

Music at the Mission Reflections, Encore!

SUBMITTED BY VICKILYN HUSSEY

Music at the Mission's upcoming community outreach concert Reflections is a rich treasure trove of classical chamber music from the 1600s to the 1970s, and this live concert is free for audience members. The featured artists, all celebrated musicians who perform with top orchestras, are Rhonda Bradetich, flute; Aileen Chanco, piano; Bill Everett, double bass; and Katherine Lee, piano.

The concert opens with three sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti, representing the height of keyboard virtuosity in the baroque period. "Known mostly for the 555 keyboard sonatas he wrote in the 18th century, Italian composer Domenico Scarlatti wrote mostly in the Baroque style, although his music greatly influenced the classical style. I'm so happy to be bringing our audiences three of his sonatas for this concert," said Music at the Mission founder Aileen Chanco, who also serves as executive director and artistic co-director with double bassist Bill Everett.

"The Sonata for Flute and Piano is American pianist and composer Eldon Burton's most known work. It was written as a composition assignment for class while he was a student at the Juilliard School and debuted the composition in 1947. It won the 1948 New York Flute Club competition and we are delighted to present it on this program," said Chanco.

"We are very happy to have premiered 'The Great Indoors' in March, by our composer in residence Mark Fish, and pleased that we are able to perform it in this Community Outreach Concert," noted Everett. "Music is a reflection of our world, so like most music being written this year, it is a reflection of the pandemic. But instead of a lament, or a look at the global impact, 'The Great Indoors' is a look at the changes to his and his family's lives with the beginning of the pandemic lockdown."

"It is deeply satisfying to be able to bring a free Community Outreach concert to our audiences, especially after these past few years," said Chanco. "I sincerely hope we can increase these types of afternoon concerts for our community in the near future."

The program is available on the Music at the Mission website musicatmsj.org.

Proof of Covid vaccination and masks are required.
